Local High School Students Hear of U. N. Pilgrimage

Miss Sharon Chapin of Echo spoke Wednesday afternoon to the students of Heppner High School on behalf of the Oddfellows U. N. Pilgrimage for Youth project of which she was a member last summer along with fourteen other Oregon high school students. In her talk, Miss Chapin told of last year's trip to the United Nations and what is being done in other schools to create interest in the project. She explained that this year's theme is "My Community and the World."

T. B. Bomboy, Pendleton, district chairman of the pilgrimage committee, told the students that competition would be keener this year due to the fact that Morrow and Umatilla Counties comprise one district. Only one student will be sent from the two counties whereas last year, three were sent.

Others appearing on the program were Jack Sumner, Heppner's own choice for last year's pilgrimage. Mrs. Ed Kelley and R. G. McMurtry, member of the local committee.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH (Lexington, Oregon)

Lewis G. Wetzel, pastor

"If ye be willing and obedient ye shall eat the good of the land" Isa. 1:19.

Freedom to worship, rather than freedom from worship was the motive of our National Fathers when they provided and defined our freedoms for us. Because of these freedoms our churches exist and open their doors to all comers. To this end the Lexington church invites you to worship God with us this coming Sunday morning and evening.

Remember: "Obedience to God is the most infallible evidence of sincere and supreme love of Him"—Nathaniel Emmons.

Across The Counter

"Merchandising has certainly changed in the past 10 years," a friend remarked the other evening. "Supermarkets offering one-stop-shop are flourishing. Drug stores have widely expanded their lines. Variety stores offer even greater variety. Has your business been affected?"

"Yes," I answered, "the insurance business has changed too. A single comprehensive policy in the liability field, for example, now takes the place of several phases of my business. Bonding coverages and floater policies, for instance, have been made more complete. Many companies, too, now offer a more complete line of coverages."

"That's interesting," he commented.

"Yes, but still only part of the story," I replied jokingly. "Consider that one-stop-shop idea for a minute. Our agency can furnish any kind of insurance desired. It is unnecessary to go elsewhere for complete protection. Through years of experience and constant study we have grown familiar with nearly all types of policies and coverages. We can—and DO take care of ALL the insurance needs of many of our clients. Of course, some clients scatter their insurance with several agencies."

"Well," my friend replied, "maybe you should adopt that old advertising slogan, 'Let A Single Call Do It All.'"
