County Clubs Join in Observance of 4-H Week

Many Projects Included in Club Activities

The challenge 4-H offers our young people is to "learn to do by doing", says N. C. Anderson, County Agent, in announcing Morrow county's participation in National 4-H Club Week, March 7-15.

Oregon's 4-H program of 25 projects includes forestry, livestock, crops, tractor maintenance, clothing, food preparation, home management, and others, Anderson points out.

Both rural and city boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 21 have an opportunity to plan and carry out the programs which help them develop leadership and good citizenship. Anderson says that through 4-H they are learning responsibility, cooperation, thrift, and hard work.

The county's 4-H members made an important contribution to world understanding during the past year through their support of the International Farm Youth Exchange, the county Agent continued.

Anderson called attention to this year's theme for National 4-H Club Week, March 7 to 15: "Working Together for World Understanding" in explaining the aims of the IFYE project.

Under the IFYE program, the young men and women, age 20 to 30, from farms in the United States live and work with farm families in other countries throughout the free world for four to six months.

President Eisenhower, recently commented the 4-H theme of world understanding and praised 4-Hers for their principles and practices of intelligent citizenship. "So doing, you are constructively serving your own country and the needs of the free world," said the President.

During the past two years, five young Oregonians have received expense-paid trips abroad and three are scheduled to leave in June from funds raised by local 4-H projects, contributions from the Oregon Bankers Association, and other civic and farm groups.

No government funds are used in financing the program. Part of the cost is met by national sponsorship, including a major grant from Ford Foundation.

Anderson said 4-H projects conducted in Morrow county in support of the IFYE project includes a square dance, sponsored by the 4-H Club Council. Definite plans will be announced at a later date according to Mrs. Melvin Poper, local chairman of the IFYE program.

Oregon IFYE delegates who will go abroad in June are: Miss Adris Eagy, Toledo; Kenneth Hill, Cove; and Howard Saucy, Dundee.

Miss Eagy, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eagy, Albany, will visit farm families in Switzerland. She is a 1951 graduate of Oregon State college and is now Lincoln county extension agent in home economics. She was an active 4-H and FHA member and was raised on a 100-acre diversified fruit and vegetable farm in Linn county.

Hill, 23, will learn about farming in Norway. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill and comes from a 200-acre hay, grain, and livestock ranch in Union county. Youth activities include 4-H, FFA, Boy Scouts, church, and college groups. He is a junior at OSC, majoring in agricultural education.

Saucy, 24, will go to France. Also a junior in agriculture at Oregon State college, Saucy says he speaks some French. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Saucy who farm 450 acres, mostly strawberries. He is a former 4-H member and is now active in the Oregon National Guard.

Two Oregon youths are now in South America as IFYE delegates, Jack Wells, 27, Independence, is in Bolivia; and Harry Tavener, 24, Klamath Falls, is in Brazil. Glenn Klein, 25, Aumsville, was in New Zealand from August 1951 to April 1952. Miss Patricia Horning, 21, Sherwood, and David Patterson, 21, Mulino, returned to the United States last November after six months in Europe.

Under the IFYE program, as young people return to their homes, it is their responsibility to tell the story of their experiences and observations. Former Oregon delegates have filled more than 200 speaking engagements to about 21,000 people in civic, farm, and school groups

Recognition is Given Leaders For Their Efforts

Morrow county's over 200 4-H members plan to show the value and achievements of their organization during National 4-H Club Week, March 7-15.

N. C. Anderson and Maud C. Casswell, 4-H agents, say that they hope that everyone in the county will be familiar with the 4-H emblem before the week is over, and will know what each "H" in the 4-H clover stands for.

The agents had high praise for Morrow county's 78 4-H leaders for "service beyond the call of citizenship". They said these volunteer unpaid leaders are essential to the entire program in giving training and guidance to our young farmers and home-makers.

The 4-H livestock club leaders in Morrow county are: E. M. Baker, Herman Bietel, Herbert Ekstrom, Ione; Harold K. throughout the state. This year, 135 two-way exchanges of "grass roots ambassadors" will be made between the United States and nearly 40 countries in Europe, the Near and Far East, Latin America, the South Pacific, Asia and Africa.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Huber have moved to their farm near Stanfield. They have sold their house on Gilmore street to the Joe Wright family who took occupancy over the weekend.

Lexington Girl Weds In Walla Walla

By Delpha Jones

A marriage of much interest to the people of Lexington was that of Airman third class Ronald G. Fahli, son of Mrs. Minnie Fahli of Portland, and Betty Botts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Botts of this city, which was solemnized last week in Walla Walla. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Papineau of this city. Also attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Botts, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crowell, John Botts. Airman Fahli is stationed in Wichita Falls, Tex., and left Monday for the base there. Mrs. Fahli is a student at the Lexington high school and plans on joining her husband whenever he is permanently stationed.

The Holly Rebekah Lodge met last Thursday with Delpha Jones Noble Grand in the chair. Cards were sent to the ill members, Mrs. Elmer Hunt of The Dalles, Mrs. Randall Martin of Heppner and Eileen Padberg of Lexington. Welcomed Mrs. Alex Hunt as a reinstated member. After the usual business meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Jones in the dining room.

The Lexington Odd fellows held their meeting Thursday night with Lester Cox Noble Grand in the chair. They announce their officers for the coming year as: chaplain, Oris Padberg, warden, George Irvin, conductor Bill Van Winkle, R. S. N. G. Cecil Jones, L. S. V. G. James Davis, R. S. V. G. E. E. BLITZ WEINHARD FOR ME!

1952: A Year of Telephone Progress for You

We've been building fast to bring still more service, still better service, to all the Pacific West

At work today in the Pacific West are more telephones than ever before in history. And the service they provide is better than ever, too. For 1952 was a year of progress for Pacific Telephone, as have been all the years since the end of World War Two. Because the telephone is so important to everyone in the West today, we'd like to give you a quick report on this past year... taken from our Annual Report for 1952.

1952 Highlights

- Every day, Pacific Telephone spent half a million dollars on construction.
- Improvements in wages and related benefits for telephone employees amounted to more than $21,000,000 annually.
- Total taxes per telephone in 1952 amounted to $37.17. This means an average tax of $3.10 per telephone per month—almost double what it was ten years ago.
- Microwave radio relay facilities were extended to Portland, Seattle and San Diego... helping us to handle more long distance calls than ever, and bringing network television to these cities for the first time.

YOUR TELEPHONE IS ONE OF TODAY'S BEST BARGAINS

New telephones went in fast. More than a million people in the Pacific West applied for telephones during the year. In most cases we were able to install them without delay. Enough telephone buildings, new lines and equipment were built during 1952 to serve the total needs of a new city the size of San Francisco. At the same time, we continued to make the telephone needs of national defense our first order of business. And in both military and civilian service, 1952 was a year of telephone progress. And we'll do all we can to match it in the years ahead.
