Across The Counter

How much would it cost to replace your fur coat? $350? $500? More?

And how much to replace your jewelry? $300? $2000? More?

It may surprise you to know that $5.00 will replace your coat (of average value) if it is stolen, mysteriously disappears, burns, etc., and you have a fur floater policy in force.

Likewise, it will only take a premium of $10.00 to replace your jewelry up to $600.00. Don't these rates seem reasonable?

Your jewels and furs are probably exposed to more and greater perils than other valuables you own. They are the choice plunder for thieves. Also, precious stones may drop from their settings, or gems may be chipped, or mysteriously disappear. Furs, too, may be ripped on car doors, damaged by fire, and so on.

Get rid of worry about the fate of your jewels and furs. Make sure you'll still have them tomorrow.

The all-risk Jewelry-Fur Floater Policy is especially designed to protect you from jewelry and fur losses due to almost every cause.

Without obligation, we invite you to consult us about the features of this policy and its cost.
