Ten Foreign Youths Will Visit Oregon Farms This Summer

Oregon will be host this summer to 10 international Farm Youth exchanges from other countries who will live, work and play as members of local farm families during a three-months visit in the state.

Farm families interested in having one of the young men or women—18 to 28 years of age—live with them for four to six weeks this summer should contact their county extension agent for application forms and additional information, according to Cal Monroe, state 4-H agent at Oregon State College.

Each of the ten foreign farm youths will live with two or three Oregon families during the summer. They will be expected to work for their room and board and a small allowance. Farm families having young persons living at home will receive preference.

Two Oregon youths are now overseas and three more are scheduled to leave in June for six months under the international youth exchange. The IFYE program is financed entirely by voluntary contributions from civic, farm youth groups and others.

A recent contribution to Oregon's IFYE fund was $195 raised by Linn county 4-H club members and presented in an April radio broadcast over KOAC at Oregon State college. Marilyn Chandler, 17, Albany, was chairman of the delegation of four 4-H'ers who presented the donation raised through candy and food sales, box socials, a "cake walk", sale of old rags and pop bottles and other money-making projects.

Other officers are Sylvia Daniels, chairman of commission on membership and evangelism; Lucy Rodgers, chairman of commission on education and superintendent of church school; Mrs. Whitmer Wright, chairman commission of missions; Howard Bryant, chairman commission of finance; Thomas Wells, chairman committee on pastoral relations; Emma Hager, Hazel Vaughn, hospital committee and D. E. Hudson, Egbert Young, Thomas Allen, Herman Green and Cornett Green, ushers.

The Panama Canal was officially opened on July 12, 1920.
