Changes Made In 4-H State Fair Exhibits

Changes in the 1953 4-H state fair exhibits have been announced by Cal Monroe, state 4-H agent. They include beef, dairy goats, dairy herd record keeping, sheep, hogs, rabbits, poultry, horticulture and entomology.

Monroe says the changes will be included in the new state fair premium list to be published soon. They represent suggestions from many groups to provide better educational experience, larger participation and to eliminate unnecessary regulations.

A major change in the livestock rules provides that 4-H animals in the market classes be judged on a group basis. Market animals, which must grade "good" or better to be eligible for any award, will be placed in blue, red and white award groups.

Rabbit exhibitors must show their own rabbits which will be judged on a group basis with emphasis on conformation and production. Flower enthusiasts may show up to three exhibits of different flower varieties this year. Mixed bouquets will be replaced by single variety exhibits.

The state 4-H office also announced state fair judges for 4-H livestock exhibits. They are Joe Johnson, Oregon State college, beef; Walter Leth, Monmouth, and Joe Cox, Hillsboro, dairy; Ralph Bogart, OSC, dairy goats; Edward Gath, Turner, sheep; O. M. Mikesell, Albany, and Doug Chambers, Salem, hogs; and Dan Law, Portland, rabbits.

were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Neal on Sunday. Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Robinson are sisters. Mrs. Robinson expects to leave for her home in Seattle next week. Other guests at the Neal home on Sunday were Mrs. Dillie Leathers and Mr. and Mrs. Chance Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Neal and children spent Sunday at the Joaquin Miller Resort as guests of Mrs. Neal's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Leathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brookshire and Lloyd Nye visited at the Robert Glenger home on Cottonwood last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cox drove to Springfield and Eugene to spend the Fourth. They returned home via Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leathers and Mrs. Henry Cupper were business visitors in John Day on Thursday.

There was a fire on the Leo Flower ranch Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson of John Day drove past and saw the fire start in some dry slab wood. The main fire crew being at Ritter, a volunteer fire crew soon had the fire under control with only minor damages.

4-H CLUB NEWS

BOARDMAN SEWING III

Boardman 4-H Sewing III was held at Mrs. Thorpe's house, our leader, on July 9. We had a picnic lunch of chocolate and butter-scotch pie, a cake, wafers, potato chips and kool-ade.

We played ping-pong also. We decided that we would try to have all of our sewing done by next meeting. There is going to be a picnic lunch at the fair grounds July 19, everybody is welcome.

After the picnic the people are going to work on the 4-H building.

IF FISH COULD TALK!

If fish could talk there would be fewer forest fires. A single match or cigarette, carelessly dropped in dry grass or leaves, can start a forest fire that will burn hundreds of acres of timber. The flow of water in streams may be affected. That's why most fishermen are careful with fire in the woods. Fishing is always better when you keep the forests green.
