Let's Do Something -Now!

Now that school has started again and we've all had a chance to see for ourselves that school officials weren't just talking to hear themselves when they said some time ago that most beginning first graders would have to be "farmed out" to have a place to care for them in our crowded school it's about time the general public got down to business and decided what is to be done about getting plans started for a new school

To our way of thinking, it's a sad situation when we let our school program get so far behind that we wait until the shoe pinches so badly that we can't stand it any longer before we take it off to see what the trouble is. But with two first grade classes being taught in churches, the pinch is past the stage of being bearable.

The previous school board made an effort to solve the problem but the voters turned thumbs down on the site selected, thereby stalling any action until some other plan could be decided upon. Then along came the school board election, and practically a new board was chosen which had to first solve the problem of where to house temporarily the children they knew were going to be in school this fall. This delayed even longer any long range planning toward a new building

The 63 children now starting in the first grade will have to be cared for for 12 years, as they progress, along with the big classes already in the higher elementary grades, and more big classes coming up in the next few years, as shown by the recent school census. The problem isn't this year's alone, it's a continuing one. It's a problem that practically every other community in the west has had to face also. And, nearly every other town and city has met it-and solved it, or is in the process of solving it. Heppner hasn't.

Up to a point, the quality of education doesn't depend upon the physical plant, but after that point is passed, it does. When classes must be

The biggest problem to be faced by the school W. Hughes, purchasing agent of board and school officials is "what kind of a Los Angeles county before Sepschool do you want?" Do the voters, the people tember 23, who supply the money, as well as the children, want a 6 year elementary school, a three year in use in many states and save with their children many unior high and a three year high school; an 8 voters time and taxpayers money. year elementary and a four year high school; or Politicians dislike them -for some other plan. What do you want the schools to each your child- are there some courses that you think he should have, that he isn't now getting. IS THIS DYNAMITE?
