Watch Fire Hazards During Holidays, Specialist Advises

To avoid fire hazards during the holiday season, keep an eye on the Christmas tree, flammable materials, and smoking matches. This reminder has been issued by Charles R. Ross, Oregon State college extension farm forestry specialist.
He has several suggestions for keeping the Christmas tree fresh and fire danger down. Get a tree that has been cut recently, and keep it outdoors until it is to be decorated. Set the tree in a stand with a water-filled container.
He advises sawing a new diagonal cut on the trunk at least an inch above the old cut to expose a fresh, moist surface to absorb water. This new cut surface should be kept below water level all the time the tree is in the house.
Starting the treatment as soon as the tree is purchased will help even if it won't be brought into the house right away, he says.
"Keeping the tree standing in water appears to be the most practical method to reduce fire hazard," Ross declares. But he adds, this treatment does not make the tree fireproof.
Electrical lights are a possible source of trouble and the forestry specialist recommends checking needles near the tree lights occasionally to see if they are turning brown. If they are, the lights should be changed.
When dry needles start falling, it's time to take the tree out, he says.
Christmas boxes, wrappings and decorations increase the amount of flammable materials around the house, Ross reminds. But clothing and other fabrics should be watched, too—especially loosely woven cotton and brushed rayon.
Smoking is always a hazard, he notes. Careless smoking habits cause nearly one-third of the fires in Oregon. "This may be just the time for the smokers' habits to undergo more than usual scrutiny," Ross suggests.
A good safety measure is having a fire extinguisher or even a bucket of water in easy reach.

Tom Turkey Best Buy For Christmas Dinner

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—For the big Christmas dinner, a tom turkey will be a better buy for the housewife than a hen, says Noel Bennion, extension poultry specialist at Oregon State college.
Although the price for toms is expected to go up after Christmas and hen prices are expected to go down, right now toms are selling at least 10 cents a pound less than hens, reports Bennion.
Some housewives feel that tom turkeys are too large for their families, says the specialist. However, at the opening of Bible School, Morning Worship at 10:55. The pastor will speak on "Keeping Christ in Christmas".
The Christmas program will begin promptly at 7:30. The offering will go to the Northwest Christian Home.

With an extension telephone, you save many steps during the day—and have a telephone handy to answer calls at night.

Extension Telephones Are Available Again!

For just pennies a day, you can have a time-saving, step-saving extension in your home
Your home can now be a truly modern, "extra-telephone" home. For, once again, we're able to install extension telephones. Extensions, you know, require only additional telephones—not outside cables and wires and central office facilities. With the convenience of an extension, you add still more value to the telephone in your home. And the cost of an extension is small—just pennies a day.

When the man of the house is a hobbyist, an extension is particularly useful. He can make—and receive—calls from his workbench in the garage without taking time out to go into the house. In your home, too, you can have an extension in the kitchen, in the den, in the bedroom—in any room in the house. Why not see about an extension for your home... soon.

How to order an extension telephone
It takes only a few minutes to order an extension. Just call your Pacific Telephone Business Office. And we'll be glad to arrange an installation to meet your special needs. Like all telephone service, an extension is high in value—low in cost.
