

HEPPNER WINS OVER CONDON, LEX

Stumble Over St. Joe Monday

A large number of Heppner basketball fans followed the Mustangs through the drifts to Condon last Friday night to watch them roll up a 62 to 53 victory over the Condon Blue Devils.

The Heppner cagers weren't too sure about the outcome of the tilt until the closing minutes when Heppner finally gained a substantial lead on the hard playing Condon quint.

The first quarter saw Heppner on the short end of a 15-13 score, but they bounced back in the second panel to tie it at 29 all. Jim Hayes, Heppner forward was taken out in the closing seconds of the half with five rule infractions. Dick Komenon spelled disaster for the Blue Devils when he unlimbered his powerful shooting arm and dumped in 8 points to put coach Steve Truko, sitz's boys ahead 48-45 at the end of the third period. Condon tried vainly to catch up but were stopped when the Mustangs opened up with a volley of shots bound for the net.

Komenon was high point man with 27 points.

The JV squad won the preliminary 31 to 30 and Beamer was high point man.

Win Over Lexington

The following night on the Heppner floor Lexington came close to scoring an upset until Lyle Jensen of the Mustangs opened up with some sharpshooting to pull the Mustangs out of danger. The game wound up 60-42 in favor of Heppner.

The Mustangs lead all through the first three periods but Lex threatened in the final quarter until Jensen pulled them out with some well aimed shots. Jim Hayes was high with 16 points for Heppner, and Way and Herman

Plan Grain Storage Space Early, Well, OSC Advises Growers

Prospects that Oregon grain growers will need 30 percent more storage space this year than last calls for careful planning to avoid spoilage or to qualify for government support loan, advise Oregon State college extension specialists.

Wheat is moving out of storage slower than it did a year ago and increased barley plantings on land held out of wheat prevent quotas could mean 6 million additional bushels of barley to store and feed in Oregon.

M. G. Huber, OSC extension agricultural engineer, reminds growers to plan storage that will hold grain without loss of quality and keep it dry from rain, snow and ground moisture. Storage should give protection against rodents, birds and insects, and permit effective fumigation to control insects. If the grain is on government loan, sufficient head room must be provided for inspection and sampling and the storage must be built so it can be sealed.

Crib-type construction may be favored if permanent storage is desired. Another angle is a multiple-use building that can later be converted to machine storage or livestock shelter. Commercial bins up to about 3000-bushel capacity are also available.

Where mechanical equipment is available for filling the storage, Huber says it doesn't make much difference whether the grain is stored over a wide floor area or in a high storage where vertical stationary elevators are used.

Moisture spoilage can result not only from a leaky roof but from an improperly constructed concrete floor. Concrete itself is not moisture-tight and may transmit moisture from damp soil unless sealed from the moisture. High moisture grain also attracts migrating insects. Inspection for rain or snow leaks should be made after severe storms.

County Exceeds Quota of Savings Bond Sales in 1953

Purchase of E and H savings bonds by Oregon state residents during 1953 surpassed all sales records since 1949, according to Jeff Carter, county savings bond chairman.

December sales of $1,945,776 brought state-wide 1953 savings bonds sales to $29,660,000, an increase of 34 per cent over 1952 and a substantial increase over each year since 1949.

County sales of $34,834 in December brought 1953 county sales to $273,516, an increase of 76 per cent over 1952. Morrow county was one of fourteen that exceeded their 1953 bond quota.

Nationally, a total of 4 billion 368 million dollars of series E and H savings bonds was purchased, an increase of 22 per cent over 1952.

National redemptions of unmaturing series E and H bonds during 1953 were considerably lower than the previous year, totaling 2 billion 831 million dollars.

Another encouraging aspect of the savings bonds operation is in the attitude of the American people toward their maturing series E bonds. Approximately 10 billion dollars in these bonds have matured since 1951. Of this amount, 75 per cent, or nearly 7 1/2 billion dollars, are being retained by bond owners under the 10-year automatic extension plan.

Carter stated that the record sales year reflects a renewed confidence on the part of the people toward savings bonds and the American dollar. "We have succeeded in developing in the people a greater sense of security in the worth of their money and in the long-term soundness of the economy," he added.

Name Oregon 4-H Youth for Awards

HIGH RATINGS in the 1953 National 4-H programs were reported by three teen-agers in the Leadership and Dairy Foods Demonstration programs. Statewide recognition in Oregon was based on their club records.

The Oregon girl who has been named state winner in the 1953 Leadership program, for outstanding guidance of club and community projects is Frances Deardorff, 16, of Prairie City.

A 4-H'er for seven years, Miss Deardorff has given talks on 4-H projects and citizenship at school and community gatherings, played the piano for smaller children to sing, and created a greater interest and challenged more competition for livestock and home economics in her community than any other exhibitor.

A 19-jewel wrist watch was presented to her by Edward Foss Wilson, Chairman of the Board, Wilson and Co., Chicago.

A Dairy Foods Demonstration that won first honors in Oregon was carried out by the team of Myrna Emery, 14, of Shedd, and Ruth Hammond, 17, of Albany.

They have utilized many ways of varying the diet by the use of dairy products, appreciating the value of milk for good health.

Their demonstrations have been given before approximately 300 people. Myrna and Ruth's high ranking team demonstration was "Dairy Special." Chosen state winners, each girl is awarded a 19-jewel wrist watch by the Carnation Company.

In carrying out this program, the teen-agers learned to speak well in public and developed poise and good sportsmanship. They performed a retinue service to their communities as well.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.
