Cooperation and Appreciation

While thumbing through some of our exchange papers the other day we came across this little column which the John Day Blue Mountain Eagle had picked up from the Forest Grove News-Times who had picked it up from the South Sioux City Star of South Sioux City, Nebraska. It is a sort of round-about way to get something, but we thought it made pretty interesting reading and the above heading we give it, which we also took from the Blue Mountains Eagle's comments, we think is quite appropriate. Its editor's short comment, part of which we also reprint here, are good too.

"... It appears to be a little caustic on the average dullard citizen. While there is meat for thought in some of the statements it is possible that a community as a whole might be presenting an attitude that does not show proper appreciation for the work done by public-spirited citizens. As you read the column, keep in mind that cooperation is a two-way street."

List 13 Sure Ways To Ruin Home Town

1. Don't pay taxes. Let the other fellow pay his. Vote against taxes. Then fuss because the streets are not kept up.
2. Never attend any of the meetings called for the good of the town. If you do, don't have anything to say. Wait until you get outside and then fuss those who made the suggestions. Find fault with everything that was done.
3. Get all the city will give you, and don't give anything in return. Write unsigned letters to the editor demanding more for your tax money.
4. Talk cooperation, but don't do any work for your city unless you get paid for it. And by all means refuse to serve unless they make you chairman.
5. Never accept an office. It's easier to criticize than to do things. Accuse anybody who serves in an elected office of being a publicity seeker.

6. Don't do any more than you have to do. When others willingly and unselfishly give their time to make a better town, howl because the town is run by a clique.

7. Don't back your fire department or your police department. If the firemen work to bring the insurance rates down, tell everybody that is what they are supposed to do. Don't thank them or the policemen for endangering their lives that you might have a safer town in which to live. Demand special treatment; raise Cain if anybody expects you to obey traffic and parking laws.

8. Look at every proposition in a selfish way. If you are not the one who gets the most good out of it, vote against it. Never consider what it will do for the town as a whole.

9. Don't do anything for the youth of the town. Criticize them as potential delinquents. Keep your feet on them. Encourage them to move away when they grow up.

10. If you have good town leaders, don't follow them. Take a jealous attitude and talk down everything they do.

11. Don't work on any committee. Tell them, "I'm too busy."

12. Don't say anything good about your town. Be the first to point up its shortcomings. Pretend that if trouble comes your way it will be the residents of some other town who will visit you while you are ill; bring in the fire department if your home is burning; comfort you if you lose a dear one; stand back of you in disaster.

13. And don't support your local stores and industries. Claim the prices and services in stores in other towns are better. Claim industry and its payroll hurts the town. But if you need a donation, ask your local stores and industries for it. Expect them to back you, but don't back them.

Research Results Show Cattle Can Do Own Delousing

Cattle will delouse themselves if given the opportunity. Provided with an insecticide-treated device to rub against, both beef and non-milking dairy cattle completely freed themselves of these biting and blood-sucking pests in less than four weeks.

These are the findings of U. S. department of agriculture entomologists who conducted trials with cattle herds in both eastern and western Oregon in cooperation with the Oregon State college agricultural experiment station.

The delouser consisted of burlap-wrapped wire stretched from the top of a five foot post and anchored to the ground nine feet from the base of the post. The burlap was treated with about a gallon of 5 percent chlordane oil solution.

In four Willamette Valley herds, checked 15 days after the rubbing devices were made available to them, animals had reduced the number of live lice on their bodies by 90 percent. No live lice were found on any of the animals in herds under test after the 25th day, nor for the next 30 days during which observations were continued.

Before the treatment, all cattle were infested with lice populations ranging from about two to six lice per square inch. There was no decrease in louse population on cattle not allowed to use the rubbing device.

The insecticide-treated burlap arrangement was not only effective but safe, since it proved impossible for cattle to overdose themselves by rubbing against it. USDA researchers, encouraged by the 1953 Oregon experiments under feed lot conditions, have announced that tests with the delousers will now be carried forward using several insecticides to find the most effective one for farm and ranch use. They believe the method may appeal to northern cattlemen who live where cold or damp winters make the spraying or dipping the animals undesirable.

Archie Cox drove to Pendleton Saturday where his wife and three children took the train for Kansas to visit her folks. He stopped in Heppner Sunday for a doctor's appointment on his return.

Heppner Student To Be U of O Graduate

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Special — Baccalaureate and graduate degrees will be conferred on some 1100 seniors and graduate students of the University at an open-air ceremony to be held Sunday afternoon, June 13.

For the first time in its history, the University will hold its commencement services in the outdoors. The 77th graduating class will be given diplomas at Hayward field.

For the first time, also, the academic procession will be heralded by newly-installed chimes. These chimes, a memorial gift to the University, will be pealed as the procession leaves the old campus and marches across to Hayward field.

Speaker for the commencement services will be the University's new president, Dr. O. Meredith Wilson.

Candidates for all degrees from the college of liberal arts and the several professional schools, total 1165. If, by June 13, all requirements are successfully fulfilled, 851 baccalaureate candidates will have their degrees conferred. A total of 314 graduate students are candidates for degrees. These represent 288 candidates for masters degrees and 26 candidates for doctorates.

Heppner student who is a candidate for a degree at the 1954 commencement is Robert Allen Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bennett. Bennett is a candidate for the Bachelor of Business degree.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.
