Oregon Farm Income Takes Dip in 1954

Oregon farmer's incomes from this year's crop and livestock products are likely to total at least 5 percent less than last year and may be down as much as 10 percent, say extension agricultural economists at Oregon State college.

"Current conditions seem to assure a continued strong demand for most farm products of the state during the remainder of 1954, but this doesn't necessarily mean prosperity for all farmers," the economists add.

Price and income prospects for the second half of the year vary widely, they say. Some products will bring more, others will bring less than last year. Mostly,

Mr. and Mrs. Art Keene (daughter); Mr. and Mrs. Will Crow of Grand Forks, B. C. (daughter); Dr. Arthur Campbell of Terre Haute, Indiana, and Roy Campbell a son. Others attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodell, Mrs. Bessie Oliver of Summerville, Mrs. Jessie Hopson and children of Milton, Mrs. Sara McNamer and Lucy Rodgers of Hepner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bloodsworth of Hermiston, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Keene and family of Ione, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Underwood of La Grande, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell and Tempa McCoy of Lexington. The host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Campbell of Hermiston.

About 70 persons from Oregon and Washington were present in Columbia park in Portland last Sunday for the first of what is expected to be an annual Hicks-McMillan family reunion. Going from here were Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMillan. His mother, Mrs. Frances McMillan, returned with them after a visit in Portland.

changes in supplies and price supports will make the difference.

Large national supplies are likely to keep the farm price pointer under last year, especially on hogs, turkeys, eggs, milk, barley, oats, turf grass seeds, hay, apples, Bartlett pears, and filberts.

Even so, the economists expect some farm products to sell for as much or more than they did a year ago.

Those most likely to bring about the same as last summer and fall are wheat, hops, beef, lambs, wool, alfalfa seed, vetch seed and walnuts.

Prices above the last half of 1953 seem in store for clover seeds (all) fescue, perennial ryegrass, potatoes, onions, peaches, winter pears, peppermint, and cranberries.

Fruits and grains are likely to show the biggest drop in income while gains appear to be in the making for most seeds, some truck crops, and potatoes. Smaller returns from poultry and dairy products are not likely to be offset by changes in income from other livestock.

How much are Standard's owners paid?

75 years ago one of the companies from which Standard Oil Company of California grew was formed by five men. In those days smaller communities and simpler needs could be served by concerns owned by one man or a small group. They furnished all the money—they kept all the profit, too. But the West grew tremendously, and we've grown up with the West.

Today, no one man could pay for all the oil fields, refineries, and other equipment Standard needs to serve you well. These investments are shared among Standard's 112,000 owners. About 97% of these shareholders are private individuals like you—including 12,000 Standard employees, our largest single group of owners. In addition, 293 schools and universities are owners of Standard, along with 224 churches and religious organizations, 165 hospitals and medical groups, and 1889 small and large businesses. These are our sole proprietors—we are neither owned nor controlled by any of the Standard companies in the East. Like the proprietors of any company, these shareholders receive the profits from their business. Each dollar they have in Standard is currently earning approximately 10¢ a year. Only about 5¢ of this is paid to them in cash. The remainder is plowed back into the business to bring you even better products and services... to stay ahead of competition. By planning ahead this way, Standard grows with the West, keeps pace with your needs.
