LEGISLATIVE WORKSHOP
A legislative workshop, the first of its kind on the West Coast and one of five in the nation offers Willamette University law and undergraduate students the fundamentals of statute interpretation and construction.

Samuel R. Haley, legislative council for the State of Oregon is working as chairman of the program at the 71-year old institution's law school.

Haley has been statute revisor of Oregon since 1951. Assisting Haley are Edwin Butler and John Paulus, who worked on revision of statutes at the 1953 session of the Oregon Legislature.

Other programs the law school has undertaken as "firsts" include the Willamette Handbook and the Legal Aid Clinic. The handbook is an aid to lawyers containing instruments of judges to juries which have been both approved and turned down by the Oregon Supreme Court. The handbook is the only one of its kind in the country.

The Legal Aid Clinic, the only one of its kind west of Denver, is associated with a law school. Help for those in need of legal advice is arranged in conjunction with the local county association.

County Agent's News

An interesting program is arranged. The first general session of the annual meeting will be a Sunday evening program in the Mormon Tabernacle on Temple Square. The world famous Tabernacle Choir will sing at this opening meeting. Besides the regular business sessions, the agents will have a chance to tour Salt Lake City and surrounding country to see at least a glimpse of Utah's natural and man made wonders.

This 39th annual meeting will coincide with the 40th anniversary of Extension service. This government agency was established by an Act of Congress, May 14, 1914. Expenses for the trip for these seventeen Oregon agents will be paid from private funds.

DEMO'S AHEAD IN PORTLAND
Last Saturday morning, the last day for registrations, the Republican totals in Multnomah County trailed the Democrats by more than 16,000.

A host of Republicans got phone calls Saturday that beat their alarm clocks. Precinct workers made early demands on their co-workers to get on the phone and stay there until every possible negligent Republican promised to get down to headquarters, turn in his name and go register.

THE INS WANT OUT
The volume of habeas corpus proceedings in Oregon courts has increased nearly 500 per cent in the past five years.

Most of these proceedings come from Oregon State Prison inmates. Wolf Von Otterstedt the assistant Attorney General who has handled many of the cases for the state gives these reasons for his recent increase:

The much publicized success of several recent writ proceedings. Because the people in general are turning more to the law for aid.

DRIVE-IN THEATER WINS
Five Portland property owners failed this week in their attempt to stop construction of a drive-in theater at S. E. 112th and Powell Blvd. Portland.

In a one paragraph opinion the state supreme court upheld that Circuit Judge, James R. Bain of Portland acted properly in throwing their case out of court.

The property owners contended the drive-in would be a nuisance because of noise, lights, dust, debris and crowds.

WE CONTINUE TO GROW
Latest tabulations from the U. S. census bureau revealed that the population of the Pacific Northwest has shown a 30 per cent increase as against a national average of 18 per cent.

Walter W. R. May of the Pacific Northwest Development Commission told a lunch club audience which included many state officials, in Salem this week.
