to 8. There were three thousand registered for this annual convention which was one thousand fewer than those registered at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a year ago. There were twenty eight from Oregon. The reason for mentioning this in this column is that those of you in wheat and livestock production here which is the leading commodities and income to our farmers, would consider three thousand as unbelievable as attendance at a National meeting of these commodities. If you think that you have a problem in production, surely the turkey growers must have one to turn out in such numbers. I think is especially significant when twenty-eight Oregon turkey growers will go the distance from the Pacific to the Atlantic for a national meeting concerning their commodities. It also may be interesting to some of you that don't know that a Oregon boy, Dale Johnson of Scappoose, won the grand champion dressed bird in the junior division at the dressed turkey show held in connection with the convention. His younger brother last year, won the grand champion at this same convention. When sold at the auction sale at the end of the convention, it brought $27.00 a pound.

Lonerock News

By Verna Hayes

Correction for January 13th news items—Mrs. George McLaughlin, who has been ill with the flu, is reported as improving. Also Suzanne Hueman, who has had the flu, returned to school after a few days absence.

Mrs. Lovena Palmer of Condon, visited Lonerock school Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Sophia Spalding who came with her daughter, spent the afternoon visiting her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell and daughter of Rhea Creek, were visitors at the home of his father, Pat Campbell and family Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Boyce made a business trip to Heppner Thursday.

Mrs. Dora Case and Mr. Robert Blue spent Sunday at the John Madden ranch at Eight Mile.

The Sewing club met Thursday afternoon at the Annex with 13 ladies in attendance. The afternoon was spent in sewing, with refreshments of salad, wafers and coffee served by Mrs. Jess Harris. Next meeting will be Feb. 3rd with Mrs. Peter Haynes as hostess.

Those on the sick list with the flu are Mrs. Lester Wick, Mary Hueman and Pete Haynes. All are improving.

Don arrived in Lonerock Friday night, with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Adams and family of Portland, to visit their mother, Mrs. Jesse Harris and Mr. Harris. They will have a family reunion, along with the Christmas tree and gifts, which Mr. and Mrs. Harris have been retaining until his arrival. Mrs. Bott and family of Monmouth arrived Sunday to help celebrate the occasion.

The presiding officers of both branches of the present legislature have done a magical job of coordinating the talents and temperaments of the members.

It takes leadership and many other exceptional qualities to get a legislative session going as it should. This legislature has these attributes in President of the Senate Elmo E. Smith and Speaker of the House Edward A. Geary.

It should not be difficult for either of these men to advance politically if they choose to do so.

To visitors in the galleries the third week, the pace of the session may have seemed slower. This happens when committee members get the grip of things and adjourn early to get on the job in committee rooms, leaving legislative halls almost deserted. That's when visitors say, "What do these fellows do?"

GOVERNOR SMITH 1957. If Gov. Patterson should win the republican nomination for U. S. Senator and beat Wayne Morse, (who has said he will seek the Democratic nomination) Senate President Smith would then become acting governor and in 1958 would be in the No. 1 position for election as governor.

PUNDITS PANDEX The State of Washington with 35 per cent more population than Oregon is faced with red ink figures of only $40,000,000 while we have a $60,000,000 shortage of funds. This amounts to $16 per capita in Washington and a $20 debt for each Oregonian.

Washington with a sales tax is threatened with an income tax by their legislators. Oregon with an income tax is trying to fight off a sales tax.

President Elmo E. Smith is the first active newspaperman to be president of the Oregon senate. Only other newspaperman to be chosen head of either legislative branch was Frank Davey who was Speaker of the House in 1907.

Former State Senator Austin Dunne, Baker Democrat, who was appointed to the State Board of Geology and Mineral Industries last week by Gov. Patterson was author of the famous Senate Bill 99 better known as the Idaho Power Co. bill. Dunne got it through the legislature in 1947 but the people defeated it at the polls the same year by referendum.

TAX PICTURE GETS WORSE The need of tax money is affecting 25 per cent of the bills introduced, in preparation or that will never come to light due to the lack of state funds.

Just now one of two alternatives seems unavoidable, a state property tax or a sales tax. We observe that a majority of legislators will accept a sales tax only if all other proposals are turned down. Even then the referendum would certainly be invoked, the state would be without sufficient funds and in a worse financial condition than now.

The only way a sales tax can be assured is for the legislature to repeal the law that provides that an emergency clause cannot become a part of a tax-creating bill.

A general sales tax has been defeated at the polls so badly so many times that few legislators will risk opposing the verdict of the people.

LONG RANGE LAWMAKING

The report of the interim committee created by the 1953 legislature to study a revamping of Oregon's constitution is now in the form of a bill introduced by Sen. S. Eugene Allen. The bill provided that a Constitutional Convention would be held in July 1959, and the voters of the state would vote on its adoption in 1961. There would be 86 delegates elected in 1958, one delegate for each 30,000 citizens.

Gov. Paul Patterson tried to get the 1953 legislature to realize the Allen plan, which was similar to the Multnomah senators present bill. The legislators' answer was an interim committee.

There is strong opposition to the Allen bill by those who term it an omnibus bill.

The opposition wants to improve the Constitution by adopting amendments.

SALARY STUDY REPORT The presentation of a report on the comprehensive study of the classifications and salaries of 17,000 Oregon State employees will be made Friday to the Legislative Interim Committee on Compensation and Retirement.

The study has been under way since September by Barrington, Associates Inc. of New York.

The Interim Committee is expected to set with the Joint Ways and Means Committee Tuesday morning, February 8 to discuss the report.

The Barrington organization will be represented by Vice President Carl W. Robinson and Donald Spanier, Director of the Field Study Staff.

CURRENT BILLS BRIEFED In the legislative grid the past week were colorful bills to—

Give jail sentences to slow drivers. . . Outlaw fishing derbies. . . Put 1,700 State Highway workers on a 40-hour week. Some now work 44 hours. . . Exempt one cow or up to three goats for any inspection other than for major disease control. (Freshman Joe Rogers (D) Polk county, in his first speech quipped "anyone who can milk three goats and find a customer ought to be free from restrictions") . . . Provide a one man liquor commissioner at $12,000 a year to take the place of the present three-man commission. . . Regulate dealers in parakeets, love birds with hooked beaks, to control Psittacosis. . . Stop unemployment benefits for persons receiving social security benefits.
