HOT SOCKETS

With friction tape, dynamite wire, flashlight batteries and bulbs in hand we trudged off to the Jerry Bunch residence for our second meeting.

Our meeting was called to order by our president, Jerry Anderson. The minutes of the last meeting were read by our secretary, Tom Green, who also took roll call—and low and behold we had four new members enroll who are Charles Smallwood, John and Jim Cason and Kenny Keeling.

New and old business was discussed, of which we had no old business. So discussed making electric magnets at our next meeting to be held March 7 at Kenny Keeling's home.

Our equipment we carried to our meeting was quickly turned into a flashlight that works, and

The state's 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters are cooperating in the safety campaign by distributing and applying the reflective stripes.

Bauer said every effort is being made to light the equipment during coming months when it will be most used. He pointed out that in Oregon, farm equipment is moved on many roads during twilight hours. The tape, which is applied to show motorists the width of the equipment, is visible more than 100 feet away, he said. The campaign, an activity of the national safety council's farm division, has been approved by the Oregon State traffic division.

The answer to everyday Insurance problems*
By Turner Van Marter & Bryant

QUESTION: When we talk about getting some additional insurance it seems to me the insurance people always say we can get it by "endorsement." I would appreciate your telling me just what that means.

ANSWER: The term "endorsement" used in connection with insurance simply means a form which can be attached to an insurance policy to change the policy terms. Additional insurance coverage is often added to an existing policy by endorsement.

"If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind."

How our 125 "dry holes" last year helped keep you on wheels

If you're anything like the average motorist, you'll use about 690 gallons of gas this year. And that's just a beginning. Keeping you on wheels and supplying you with the thousand and one "oil-born" products so vital to modern living requires 2 gallons of petroleum a day for every man, woman and child in the U. S.—an increase of 58% since 1941. Helping to keep this oil flowing to you is Standard Oil Company of California's biggest, most expensive, least predictable job. In fact, we plan to invest $200 million during 1955 alone in exploring for new oil fields and developing existing ones, to help replace the petroleum you'll use. Some 700 times this year, Standard drillers will start bits spinning. As much as 16,000 feet of pipe may follow the bit before oil is found or the well is abandoned. Either way it's a costly hole: drilling an oil well may run from $125,000 to over $1 million. And every one is a risk—only 1 out of every 9 wells drilled in the U. S. in a promising but unproven area turns out to be an oil producer. Yet new sources of oil must be found to keep our nation's supplies from dwindling. Risking "dry holes" is the only way to find them. So the 125 "dry holes" we drilled last year are good evidence of the job Standard does to help keep you on wheels.

Standard plans ahead to serve you better
