ROSEY SAYS: Speaking of the improvements in Heppner last week I failed to mention one of the greatest improvements ever made in our fair city and that is the modern sewage disposal system. The sewer system is a model installation and deserves special mention. The greatest improvement in automobiles during the last 20 years is the ball-joint front suspension on the new Ford car. It makes the car steer like power steering and makes the car take the corners without creaking. If you don't own a new Ford the chances are you haven't driven one lately.

until September 18, 1955, with the State Civil Service Commission, Salem, or state office building, Portland. The objective of the examinations is to build up a preferred reserve list.
STUDY ATOMIC LABOR
Former Governor Charles A. Sprague, editor of the Salem Statesman, returned Friday from Washington, D. C., where he attended a meeting of a committee studying labor relations in plants administered by the Atomic Energy Commission.
This is the second meeting of the committee he has attended as a member.
SALEM EDITOR
After 49 years of editorial and copy desk work George Putnam former editor and publisher of the Salem Capital Journal will move over from the copy desk to a rocking-chair job (he thinks) of writing a column.
He was the subject of a book published by Bindfords and Mort in 1951 which told the story of his crusade for freedom of the press.
Putnam sold the Journal to Bernard Mainwaring in 1952.
Besides writing a column he will continue to contribute to the editorial columns of the Journal.
Guests last Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. McMurdo were Miss Kathleen McFaul, Anaheim, California and Miss Ellen Bowling, Bakersfield, California, cousins of Mrs. McMurdo.
