Boardman Benefit Style Show Held

By Mary Lee Marlow (Too Late for Last Week)

The first style show and silver tea by the Tillicum club was given on the post office lawn, Tuesday, Aug. 23 at 2 p. m. The affair was a benefit for the care of two children in the crippled children's hospital in Eugene.

Mrs. George Wiese was master of ceremonies. Music for the show was played by Mrs. Lowell Shattuck. Summer and fall fashions for both children and adults were modeled. Mother and daughter dresses of printed pongee were shown by Mrs. Ronald Black and daughter Diane. Worn with them were white nylon stoles.

Other children modeling were Dewena West wearing a blue and white polka dotted cotton dress, trimmed with red baby rickrack; Linda and Jody Tatone, with Linda showing a sheer nylon dress in navy blue, trimmed with white collar edged with lace, and a red velvet ribbon belt, worn over a white stiffened petticoat, and Jody wearing a three-piece outfit of navy blue linen, completely lined, short pants and long jacket with a pink and white candy-striped vest, and a bow tie to match the emblem on his jacket; Greg Bedord showing a plastic black and white jacket, millium lined, with a black felt western style hat to match; Dewena West again modeling a black and white plaid gingham with the new dropped waistline, and white collar and cuffs, and an envelope over the shoulder bag of the same material to hold all the little girl items; Karen Gronquist and Linda Tatone wearing coats and hats with purses to match, Karen showing a grey faille princess style coat with a deep cape like collar of grey and pink, and pink buttons, the black belted with four un-pressed pleats. It had a shoulder bag and hat to match. Linda wore a grey coat with deep cape collar adorned with many rows of stitching, running into a V at the back, pointing to a buttoned belt. Her costume was complete with bag and straw bonnet in navy, trimmed with white and topped with apple blossoms.

Following the children, maternity outfits were shown by Mrs. Leonard Bedord, one in navy blue cotton, featuring the cut-out skirt, and full top with white collar and daisy corsage, and the other a washable cotton dress in unusual pussy willow print, with a low neckline and a single pleat in front.

Mrs. Bob Thornhill next modeled a brunch coat of turquoise corduroy with full three-quarter length sleeves and small cuffs, a full length zipper in front and two large pockets.

A full length housecoat of white nylon with soft floral print was shown by Mrs. Gladys Chambers. It had short sleeves and wide lapels, plus a pocket, all trimmed with lace.

In sportswear Mrs. Joe Tatone wore a one-piece panty-type swimming suit in two-toned e-fes pink, to be worn either with or without shoulder straps.

A novelty number was next presented by Mrs. Lowell Shattuck, wearing an old fashioned swimming suit.

Mary Ann Rands modeled a bathing suit of blue cotton, with elastic shirring covering the back.

Crazy pants and sweaters were shown by Lorna Shannon and Mrs. Bob Thornhill, Lorna wearing brightly colored diamond corduroy pants and a grey short-sleeved sweater, and Mrs. Thornhill wearing eggshell corduroy with occasional splash of color, and a brilliant coral sweater with push-up sleeves.

Mrs. Tatone again modeled, showing a white sports blouse, worn with green Bermuda shorts and white sandals. Mrs. Thornhill followed wearing black gabardine playboy slacks, with a soft white cotton turtle neck sweater topped with white belted plastic jacket.

DUBIOUS HONOR of becoming Pioneer Memorial Hospital's 5,000th patient since it was open in June 1950, fell to none other than a physician, Dr. Tracy K. Johnson of Fossil. Dr. Johnson is shown being wheeled out of the emergency room following examination of spinal injuries he received last Thursday in a fall at Fossil. Patient number 4999 was Mrs. Jim Angel of Heppner, who arrived only shortly before the doctor. (Photo by Jack Angel) wearing a ribbed white cotton sleeveless T-shirt with turtle neck effect, and camelia shorts stitched with navy blue. Mrs. Tatone again showed Bermuda shorts in black wool with a horizontal-striped cotton jersey T-shirt, which could be worn either tucked in or out. With this she wore knee-length cotton Bermuda socks, to be worn with English walking brogues.

The sportswear was followed by prints. Mrs. Black modeled a hand blocked design skirt of cotton with straw belt, worn with black cotton blouse, black pumps and white jewelry. For street wear Mrs. Dewey West wore a toast brown butcher linen suit with straight skirt with walking pleat in back, and box type jacket trimmed with pearl buttons and belt type trim on the side, worn with sleeveless blouse which was made of same material as the lining of the jacket.

For summer daytime wear Mrs. Sid Cloud modeled a navy two-piece dress worn with pring blouse also made of the same material as the lining of the jacket, the material of the dress being wrinkle resistant linen.

Mrs. Ray Gronquist showed a linen three piece suit, tailored, the hyacinth coat worn with matching straight skirt. This also had a figured cotton blouse made from material same as lining of the jacket.

Mrs. Gladys Chambers next appeared wearing an ensemble of cotton plique in sharp black and white contrast. The lining of the full length coat matched the dress, and when removed revealed a pencil slim sun dress adorned only with a wide black velvet belt. The single touch of color was a crimson flower worn on the coat lapel. There was also a black plastic bag, with white polka dots. The whole en- (Continued on page 6)

VICTIM of the Heppner Civic League float in Saturday's rodeo parade was Phil Blakney who trudged along behind their rummage sale float in this barrel which bore a sign "They took all my clothes." Not shown in the photo, but accompanying him were Blakney's two small sons attired similarly wearing signs, "Me Too". (GT Photo)
