THE IDEAL SUPERINTENDENT

Spends his life helping other people's children but is content to spend an hour a week with his own.

Has chronic low blood pressure.

Possesses an ulcerproof stomach.

Can withstand petty gripes and slaps during a 10 hour work day and tend to school and community business eight nights weekly.

Enjoys wakeful nights of worry over school problems; jumps out of bed with a huge morning smile.

Has the hide of rhinocerotidae unicornis.

Finds solutions to insoluble problems; makes people with contrary demands happy.

Has a wife who loves him so much she doesn't care whether she ever sees him.

Possesses only the skills of the business executive, educational philosopher, accountant, teacher of teachers, architect, dynamic public speaker, human relations expert and maintenance engineer.

THE IDEAL SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER

Has a heart of gold, a mind of steel and a nervous system of elastic.

Has a built-in phone holder over his left shoulder and a patented tear absorber on his right shoulder.

Makes astute and penetrating policy decisions on matters he's ignorant of.

Loves to be hooked by gobbledegook.

Can explain lucidly to parents that a straight line for the school bus is not necessarily from door to door.

Can obtain aspirins at a 50 per cent discount.

Has a foolproof method of increasing teacher salaries and building new buildings while lowering the tax rate.

Can negotiate between the horse and buggy and space ship schools of education without spitting the child's personality.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

On September 28th at 3:00 a puppet show, "Miniature in Review" was presented to the students of Ione, by Mr. and Mrs. Eagle, who have been in the show business for 37 years. They have had their own show for 16 years, and have toured all over the U. S. At one time they toured for 65 weeks without a break.

They have been in Hollywood all summer where they have been working at the CBS studio making their own recordings which they will use on their show this season.

Mr. Eagle makes all the puppets of wood and also does the painting, while Mrs. Eagle makes the puppets wardrobes.

For their tours they use 15 different puppets. A few of them are:

Ballet dancer, pianist and opera soloist, beboper's, clown on a flying trapeze, Frank Sinatra, clown doing a song and dance act, acrobatic.

Both grade and high school students enjoyed the forty-five minute show, which was very colorful and entertaining.

Our next National Assembly will be December 8 at 11:00 and we hope more parents will come and see it, because each one is very interesting and are of educational value, also the young children will enjoy it.

AMERICAN PROBLEMS

Our American Problems class heard from Heppner high school that a question was brought up in Social Ec. to "find the day of the week that George Washington was inaugurated. We all wish to thank the Social Ec. class of Heppner for the question that has brought a lot of enthusiasm.
