

Commandry Yule Observance Set For Milton-Freewater

The Pendleton Commandry number 7 Christmas observance program will be held in Milton this year in accordance with the precedence of holding this program in various cities in the jurisdiction of the Pendleton district.

The observance in Milton-Freewater is to be presented in the Christian church located on south Broadway starting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 11, according to chairman R. E. Batchelor, of Pendleton.

Truman Robbins, pastor of the Christian church, will deliver the Christmas message and congregational singing will be included on the program.

The Pendleton Commandry is inviting the community to participate in the observance and Batchelor states that the Pendleton Commandry, Knights Templar of Oregon, is a part of York Rite Masonry of Oregon and has over 300 members in Hermiston, Umatilla, Heppner, Fossil, Pendleton, Milton-Freewater and other states.

Farm Building Loans Available Here

Farmers in Morrow county who own and personally operate family-type farms and need to build or repair essential farm buildings, including dwellings, may be eligible for building improvement loans through the Farmer's Home Administration, James S. Cody, the agency's county supervisor said this week.

A building improvement loan is only one type of the agency's farm ownership loans. Loans are made either from insured funds put up by private lenders or from funds appropriated by Congress. Other types of farm ownership loans the Farmer's Home Administration makes or insures, enable farmers to purchase, enlarge, develop, or improve family-type farms. Construction and repair of essential farm buildings are provided for in all types of farm ownership loans to the extent necessary to make the farm an efficient unit.

With a building improvement loan a farmer may construct, alter, repair, replace, or relocate an essential building or buildings on his farm. Specific improvements are agreed upon before the loan is made. Buildings must meet reasonable construction standards and be adequate for the farm's needs. No loan is made that will bring a farmer's indebtedness up to more than the fair and reasonable value of the farm.

Loan funds may be used to provide a water supply for dwellings and other buildings including wells, pumps, and farmstead distribution systems.

A building improvement loan may be made for periods from 5 to 40 years, depending on the improvement, and the farmer's debt-paying ability.

As we summarize 4-H Club record books at the end of the project year, some interesting details are uncovered in financial statements and stories of the club member's work during the year.

One of the interesting record books received was that of Russell Dolven, Lexington livestock club member, who last year won the Safeway Stores livestock breeding project scholarship for outstanding work in his sheep breeding project. Russell, who has just completed his fifth year in club work started out with a couple of Southdown ewes and has gradually developed into one of the top sheep breeding projects. In addition to his small Southdown herd, he has a registered Columbia flock which now totals 50 head. Income from his sheep and wool this past year was almost $2,000 with a $500 profit. Indicating that he is getting something out of club work, this year Russell was fourth place judging individual in the Oregon Wheat Growers League fat stock sale judging contest with almost 200 club members participating.

Last Sunday, members of the Heppner-Butter Creek livestock club met to reorganize their club for the new club year. Interest was so high that the club ended up dividing itself up into three clubs from the original one. Clubs organized were the Butter Creek-Hinton livestock club, The Hoof and Horn livestock club and the Rhea Creek livestock club. Each club has at least five members with prospects for additional members in each.

TUM-A-LUM LUMBER COMPANY is featuring a new insulation now handled by the firm, Armstrong's full four-inch-thick blanket type insulating wool. Jim Sumner is shown measuring the insulation to show its full thickness. Also shown in the photo are a few of the many power tools in stock at Tum-A-Lum that make ideal gifts for the do-it-yourself fan.

ELECTRONIC SERVICE is featuring a complete line of famous Admiral refrigerators and ranges. Here Rodger Kincaid, Ione is examining one of the new modern refrigerators being shown by Mrs. Glenn Way. Among the other top lines awaiting Christmas shoppers are Admiral and Hoffman television sets and Admiral radios. The store is located on Gilmore street in Heppner.

A former Republican state senator, Hitchcock would oppose Congresswoman Edith Green, Democrat, if he should win the Republican nomination in May. Looks like the State Fair will have a big horse show in 1956. Fair board to meet in December when they expect to OK the event.
