Inspired By Knights Of Yore

It's a long call from King Arthur's Round-Table Knights to today's mechanical products, but the similarity between them is more than just coincidence.

That's the opinion of Brooks Stevens, noted industrial stylist, who here points out the evolutionary design linking a modern outboard motor with the helmet worn by armored knights.

"Medieval artisans were experts in functional design," Stevens explains, "and this styling is being recaptured in today's industrial motifs. A typical example is Johnson's new thirty h.p. outboard, a chrome-trimmed custom-styled unit which, appropriately enough in view of its design origin, is called the 'Javelin'."

"We call it 'advanced' styling—but it's a modern adaptation of the art of the ancient craftsmen."

The Javelin is one of nine 1956 models in which the manufacturer places emphasis on style and color.

Announcement was made that the Heppner auxiliary needs only two members to complete its quota.

The answer to everyday insurance problems*
By Turner Van Marter & Bryant

QUESTION: A young friend of our son doesn't own a car but is engaged to a girl who does have a car. When they go out together he always drives and I've heard him say he'd like to carry Liability insurance of his own. Would this be possible?

ANSWER: Certainly and it is a very wise thing for him to do. The premium for that kind of coverage is very low, too.
