"Birlybird" helps string a telephone line. More and more uses are being found for helicopters in the telephone business. Not long ago, one was used to help a tele-crew string over two miles of wire across several steep canyons loaded with brush and poison oak. After poles were put up on the hill tops, the 'copter laid a rope across the cross-arms. Then the wire was fastened to the rope and the crew pulled it into position from pole to pole. In this way, a job that would have taken a week was done in an and a half. Corner-cutters like this do a lot, of course, to speed up the expansion of telephone system. The men and women of Pacific Telephone work to make telephone more useful every day.
