

Lex Track Squad Takes Honors

By Delpha Jones

Twelve Lexington high school students went to Salem Saturday, March 31 where they participated in the annual Willamette university relays. Those making the trip were Dexter Miles, Larry and Laddie Henderson, Keith Peck, Hoyt Laney, Mike Patrick, Hugo Leyva, Donald Hunt, Don Casteel, Lee Cornilson, Verne Nolan and George Hermann. Lexington garnered one first place in the 100 yard dash of the afternoon when Vern Nolan legged the century in 11 seconds flat which was the fifth fastest time for the relays. The 440 relay team Hunt, Casteel, Nolan and Hermann came in 4th position in one of the faster heats of the afternoon. Future track plans for Lexington include the speed carnival at Milton-Freewater on Friday. Heppner and Lexington teams enjoyed dinner at the oyster house in Portland on the way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Anderson and daughter Bunny June of Pilot Rock and Clarence Anderson of Alaska were visitors at the George Allyn home on Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth McNeil and Robert Najorean of Pendleton were visitors with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Allyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peck and children were Portland visitors over the weekend.

The three dens of the Lexington cub scouts held their pack meeting last Wednesday in the auditorium. The program was about fish and a most interesting program was enjoyed. Fish and their habits were discussed with the program being in the form of an aquarium. Also on this program was a fine movie shown by Bill Labhart, and a question and answer program was enjoyed between Mr. Labhart and the parents later.

Monday was den meeting for the three groups with meetings at the den leaders homes. Some of the groups are starting to make bird houses.

Joe Clark, a patient in Pioneer Memorial hospital, underwent minor surgery last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Breeding were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Livingston of Spray. Mrs. Livingston is a sister of Mr. Breeding. Sunday they enjoyed dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Burnside. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sitten and family of Kinzua, Mr. and Mrs. George Steagall and family of Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. Breeding. This was in honor of Mrs. Burnside's birthday.

Tommy Steagall, small son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steagall was home over Easter holidays from the blind school in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Padberg, Paul Breeding, and Denny McMillan went smelt fishing on the Sandy River Sunday, returning with a nice bunch of smelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin and children were dinner guests Sunday of the Don Hatfields.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Munkers entertained with a dinner Sunday at their home with the following being present Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Munkers and daughter Marilyn, and a niece from Pendleton, Mrs. Edna Munkers and the Munkers family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Angell and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nichols were smelt fishers at the Sandy River in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson have been visiting the last week with their daughter and son near San Francisco.

Several ladies of the church met at the Ken Peck home on Tuesday afternoon where they drew up a set of by-laws to be read at the meeting of the organization formed to work for the benefit of the Lexington church.

This meeting will be held the third Tuesday of April at the church. All people interested are invited to come and fellowship with this group. Those attending the meeting at Peck's were: Mrs. M. V. Nolan, Mrs. Ken Peck, Mrs. Norman Northrup, Mrs. George Allyn, and Mrs. C. C. Jones. Refreshments were served the ladies later in the afternoon.

Mrs. Bob Kilkenny and Mrs. Roy Martin were Hermiston visitors one day last week.

Mrs. O. W. Cutsforth and Mrs. Lyle Cox were Pendleton visitors one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Way visited Sunday night in Lexington at the Ken Marshall home, and with his brothers Asa and Marvin Way and a sister Mrs. June Cooper.

The Easter program at the church on Sunday morning was well attended with all classes taking part in the program. Attendance is urged and there are classes for all ages.

Mrs. Franklin Miles and Mrs. C. C. Jones entertained their Sunday school class with an Easter egg hunt at the Miles ranch on Saturday afternoon. There were 19 children present, and Mrs. E. Peck, Mrs. William Van Winkle Jr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, besides the hostess. After a most successful Easter egg hunt, refreshments of cup cakes and punch were served.

Guests at the O. W. Cutsforth home on Saturday and Sunday were Mrs. Cutsforth's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John Denslinger and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Denslinger and daughter of The Dalles, a sister of Mrs. Cutsforth, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baldwin and a brother, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wetmore all of Quincy, Washington, and an aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Roberts and son, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roberts of Spokane and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nelson and sons of Richland, Washington. Sunday these people and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Cutsforth, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cutsforth, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kilkenny were dinner guests.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Messinger Sr. and son Carroll of Mitchell were visitors in Lexington on Sunday.

The following from Lexington attended the Easter cantata at the Christian church in Heppner on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Munkers and daughter Marilyn, Mrs. C. C. Jones and daughter Charlene, Rosetta and Sue Laney, Paula Barak, Maureen Groves and Inez O'Neal. Maureen Groves poured coffee during the reception held in the basement and Marilyn Munkers served the tea.

A large crowd gathered Sunday morning at 6 a. m. on the mountain road for the Easter sunrise service. At 7 a. m. most came back to town and had breakfast at the grange hall. Programs were held at the Community church at 10 a. m. and Vesper services at 7:30 in the evening.

FANCY COLOR FILMS—Ron Malcolm, above will show color films of Alaska at Heppner high school gym. Show Monday night, April 16. Two films. This is Alaska and Tundra Haven, are due for showing

MALCOLM, ALASKAN FILMS DUE FOR SPECIAL HEPPNER SPORT SHOW

The beauty, grandeur and excitement of life in Alaska will be portrayed at the Heppner high school gym on Monday night, April 16 when the high school student council sponsors the appearance of Ron Malcolm, well known sportsman, photographer and commentator.

Malcolm will present his two great feature color films. This is Alaska and Tundra Haven. On Monday night spectators will see thrill-packed adventure through a hunter and fisherman's paradise. In his personal narration, Malcolm will unfold his six year's experience in colorful, often misunderstood Alaska.

Included in the two feature color films is a dramatic wolf hunt where skill with a shotgun is aided by use of a fast low-flying airplane, resulting in unbelievably fast action.

The Alaskan Huskies prove their worth in providing otherwise unobtainable transportation for the soon-to-be-forgotten fur trapper as he makes the rounds of a lengthy beaver trapline.

Malcolm has also scored a "first" in filming the only known record of a movie, in color, wherein two massive-antlered bull moose battle for supremacy.

The beautiful color photography covers all phases of Alaskan life in a perfection of detail that is truly awe-inspiring.

Photographed, compiled and completed over a full six years, the two color films include the rigors of life in Alaska throughout all seasons. Malcolm, according to those who have seen the movies, has accomplished what no other man has ever approached in packing whirlwind adventure into an unforgettable historical record.

Best Spring Grains For Eastern Oregon Recommended by OSC

Prospects for another heavy spring planting of feed grains in Oregon raises the question of which varieties are best suited for Eastern Oregon.

Rex Warren, Oregon State college farm crops specialist, picks Flynn 37 and Harlan as the best feed barley choices for the Columbia basin where much of the diverted wheat acreage during the past two years has gone to barley production. Harlan may be a little scarce this spring, Warren adds.

Bonneville barley gets the nod for the Snake River-Malheur county area, and Hannchen remains the top variety for the Klamath basin. Dual-purpose Hannchen is not only a good, high-producing feed grain but has the added advantage of being acceptable as brewing barley.

For central Oregon, Warren names Hannchen for malting barley and Trebi or Bonneville for feed barley on irrigated land.

Federation is again the best spring wheat variety for most of Eastern Oregon. Baart 46 is recommended for the Klamath basin. Statewide, spring planting intentions point to a 35 percent increase in spring wheat over last year. Warren points out, however, that spring varieties accounted for only about 15 percent of Oregon's total wheat acreage last year.

Carleton oats are picked for the Columbia basin, Shasta for central Oregon, and Overland, Shasta, Winema, and Markton oats offer a big selection for the Klamath basin.

U. S. 13 hybrid field corn gets top rating for the Columbia basin. Warren lists it as one of the better varieties for the Hermiston "corn belt" where irrigation and heavy nitrogen fertilizer programs are bringing 150-bushel yields to vie with traditionally high yields of Malheur county's long growing season.

Idahybrid 544, Western 90 Day, or Idahybrid 680 are recommended corn varieties for the Malheur county area.
