A Bowlful of Salad News

Here's great news, because there's a really "new" recipe to add to the great family of salads. It's a hearty supper salad, made with a base of rice, ready in minutes with packaged pre-cooked rice. What a great blessing these hot, humid days, to be able to prepare a meal for your family that's both hearty and tasty, yet easy and quick. The added flavor of the ham mingled with the cubes of pineapple make it one of the most taste-tantalizing salads ever. This is really fine eating for a warm summer evening!

Ham and Rice Salad

3/4 cup packaged pre-cooked rice	1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt	1 teaspoon grated onion
1/2 cup boiling water	1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 to 1 cup mayonnaise	1 1/2 cups diced cooked ham
1/2 teaspoon salt	1 cup drained pineapple cubes (fresh or canned)
1/4 teaspoon pepper	1 cup diced celery

Add packaged pre-cooked rice and 1/4 teaspoon salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 minutes. Then uncover and let cool to room temperature.

About 1 hour before serving, combine mayonnaise, 1/2 teaspoon salt, the pepper, lemon juice, onion, and mustard, mixing well. Combine ham, pineapple, and celery in a bowl. Stir in the mayonnaise mixture. Then add the rice and mix lightly with a fork. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes about 5 1/2 cups, or 5 or 6 servings.

Careless Spraying And Dusting Causes Heavy Damage

Farmers and others who use poor methods in spraying and dusting crops against plant pests and diseases are causing thousands of dollars damage to Oregon farmlands, reports S. R. Kelso, supervisor of herbicide control and weather modification for the state department of agriculture. Some of the injury is on areas adjoining that for which the sprays are intended.

Kelso explains that damage in most cases is caused by people unfamiliar with these materials and dangers created by wind conditions during their application. Few damage cases are caused by commercial ground-air applicators, because they must meet certain standards before granted a license by the state.

Information about proper techniques in spraying and dusting crops may be obtained from the extension service of Oregon state college. Farmers can also learn proper spraying and dusting techniques by attending an educational series on the use of herbicides. The series is conducted each March and April at Oregon State college under the sponsorship of the college, the state highway department, and the state agricultural department.

Kelso points out that reliable statistics on the air and ground application of chemicals are limited. Early this year representative groups for applicators approved a survey built on a work order form which would aid in compiling these statistics. The form was introduced recently, but less than half of the licensed commercial applicators in the state are using it, according to Kelso. He urges commercial applicators to use this new work form which will benefit the industry, state agencies and the general public by producing reliable statistics on the air and ground application of chemicals.
