

County Chapter Officers Named

Gene Malecki, Oregon representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Mrs. E. E. Burdick, new state women's advisor, were in Heppner last week to confer with the new county chapter officers. They conferred with Mrs. Jack Loyd, chairman of women's activities, and Mrs. Velma Glass, new chairman of the county chapter.

Other new county officers who were named recently include Clem Stockard, vice-chairman; Ray Myrick, secretary; and Robert Ferrell, treasurer.

Barton Clark will serve as new county chairman for the March of Dimes. Charles V. Knox will be the new Heppner M of D chairman, and Miss Joyce Buschke is treasurer.

Chamber Plans Value Days in September

The chamber of commerce merchants committee announced this week that it is planning another Heppner Value Days event for September 21 and 22 and urged all local merchants to make plans to participate in an effort to make it one of the best selling events yet held.

Value Days have been held twice or three times a year for the past several years and usually attract large crowds of shoppers to Heppner.

The committee also announced a plan to provide a monthly list of delinquent accounts to all merchants who wish to participate in the plan. Merchants will report all accounts which are more than 90 days old. The list will be compiled monthly and distributed to all participating stores.

BEE BUSINESS BOOMS

Ray Smith, Heppner, revealed this week that he is now in the commercial apary business with the recent purchase of a 40 colony apary. He now has 68 colonies of bees in the area.

All hives are registered and licensed by the state department of agriculture and carry a U-2 brand.

Shipment Due of Encephalitis Vaccine

One local drug store received word today from Cutter Laboratories that nearly 100 shots of encephalitis vaccine had been located in the midwest and was being sent to Heppner by air mail in an effort to provide sufficient vaccine for all horses in the area which might be shown during the coming rodeo. Clem Stockard of Humphreys Drug Co. said he expected the vaccine by this weekend.

Phil Blakney of Phil's Pharmacy said today he had a few shots on hand and had been promised a sizeable shipment by early next week.

No cases of the disease has yet been reported among local horses but the supply of vaccine in the area has been exceedingly short.

Student Body Head Attends Conference

Shirley Kononen, student body officer at Heppner high school, was learning the latest technique of leadership last week at the second annual student council workshop at Oregon State college. Mis Kononen is student body president.

More than 150 high school students who will lead their schools during the coming year and 25 advisors attended the week-long meeting which ended Aug. 17. It brought together student leaders and high school advisors to work toward understanding of objectives of student councils. It is sponsored by the Oregon Association of Student Councils in cooperation with OSC.

HOME FROM NEW YORK

Mrs. Clara B. Gertson arrived home Saturday from New York where she had been attending the 14th biennial convention of American Federation of Soroptimist clubs and the fifth quadrennial convention of Soroptimist International. Miss Leta Humphreys and Mrs. Pearl Devine, who also attended the convention, will return next month. En route home Mrs. Gertson spent two days in St. Paul attending a meeting of the state directors of the Degree of Honor.

Savings Bond Sales Show Big Drop in County During July

Sales of United States E saving bonds continued to be high in Oregon last month but they dropped considerably in Morrow county. Morrow savings bond chairman Jack Bedford reported.

Morrow county residents purchased only $5,220 worth of the popular securities in July compared to $67,189 in July 1955. Sales for the year are also down here with $128,378 sales through July this year compared to $304,413 for the same period last year.

Throughout the state, Oregonians bought $2,619,312 worth of E bonds in July. This was down slightly from July 1955 but higher than in any other recent year.

Queen and Court Chamber Guests

Queen Patricia Wright and her court of princesses, several of the girls' mothers and chaperone, Mrs. William Smethurst were guests of the chamber of commerce Monday at its regular weekly meeting. The girls have been making numerous appearances at other fairs and rodeos throughout this area.

Carl Spaulding showed the group a series of colored slides taken of the recent hotel fire at Wasco.

Wheat Yields Same With Different Nitrogen Spacings

Different spacings of liquid and gas nitrogen fertilizer applications had little or no effect on wheat yields this year at the Oregon State college Sherman branch experiment station at Moro.

Bill Hall, station superintendent, says Rio wheat yields from test plots this summer were comparable for both anhydrous ammonia and aqua ammonia nitrogen when fertilizer applicator shanks were spaced 16, 24, and 32 inches apart.

Depth of application, tested at 3 inches and 6 inches, for various spacings also gave no yield difficult to apply since nitrogen may escape if applicator shanks cross depressions in the field.

The Moro test plots were treated with 40 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre prior to seeding last September. Yields from all the treatments were approximately 29 bushels per acre compared to 23 bushels from check plots receiving no nitrogen.

A further check against results was application of ammonium nitrate—a dry form of nitrogen broadcast on top of the soil—that yielded the same as the other treatments when applied at the 40-pound rate.

This year's findings are further supported by 1955 trials at the Moro station when equal wheat yields were obtained with shank spacings of 10, 16, and 22 inches and depths of 3, 6, and 9 inches. Similar results have been reported from the Pendleton branch, experiment station.

Hall said wide spacing of shanks caused some "streaking"—the result of concentrated application of nitrogen in individual shank rows. The streaking which was noticeable until the wheat headed did not appear to shrivel wheat kernels or cause any other detrimental effects.

The project is part of the cooperative research program between OSC and the agricultural research service of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Livestock Market Tour Set Sept. 5 For 4-H Members

An educational tour for 4-H club members in livestock marketing has been set for September 5 in Portland, reports Cal Monroe, state 4-H extension agent at Oregon State college.

Exhibitors of 4-H market livestock at State Fair and other club members are eligible to participate in the day's events, which will be highlighted by sale of their 4H animals at the Portland Union stockyards.

Oregon Farm Bureau Federation will truck State Fair animals from Salem to North Portland, Tuesday, September 4. Other participants in the program are expected to have their animals at the stockyards by 7 a. m., on Wednesday. The sheep market opens at 8 a. m. and hog and cattle markets open at 9 a. m.

Club members will watch as their animals are sorted, weighed and delivered to buyers by commission agents, according to W. Y. Fowler, OSC livestock marketing specialist and chairman of the tour.

W. E. Williams, president of the Stockyards company and Prosser Clark, secretary of the local livestock exchange, will explain marketing procedures to the group. The exchange is a voluntary organization of the commission firms at the stockyards.

Club members will arrive at the yards for breakfast September 5, at 7 a. m. Morning and noon meals will be provided by the stockyards and livestock ex-
