HEPPNER SCHOOL NEWS

Heppner high school's first National School Assembly program for this year will be Thursday, September 27, at 12:45 p. m. in the high school gymnasium.

The Mississippi Jubilee Singers make up one of the best-known jubilee quartets of the entire country. With their unique background of experience and training they form a combination of voices seldom equalled. Probably no jubilee male quartet in America is giving a more authentic interpretation of Negro spirituals, camp meeting shouts, or of the popular plantation melodies. Each member of the quartet is a fine soloist. The repertoire of the Mississippians is extensive, including the best in Negro music. The entire program reflects the humor, the deep religious flavor, the drama and pathos, the good nature, and the musical gift of their race.

This unusual quartet is under the personal direction of Thomas J. Pruitt, of Berkeley, California. Mr. Pruitt is a graduate of the famous Negro school at Piney Woods, Mississippi. He is a master in the field of music and readings.

An informative talk at the start of the program explains the nature of the Negro folk music.

Several years of radio experience over Western stations and the National Broadcasting System of San Francisco have made them well known and widely popular.

Parents and adults are invited to attend this assembly program. Admission will be 25 cents or a student body card.

OSC Picked to Give Flight Instruction

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Oregon State college has been picked as one of the first institutions in the country to introduce a newly authorized flight instruction program into its air force reserve officer training course during 1956-57.

The flight instruction program was authorized by the last Congress as a means of stimulating interest in the air force as a career and as a way of determining a student's qualifications for flying before he actually embarks on the long and costly air force flight training program after graduation.

OSC's air force unit will begin training winter quarter, according to Col. LeRoy G. Heston, air force unit commandant.

The congressional action also authorizes flight training in army and navy ROTC programs—both of which OSC has—but no definite plans have been announced yet to local units. Most of the 180 colleges offering air force ROTC are expected to have the flight instruction program within two or three years.

Twenty-one OSC seniors who are preparing for flight training under the present advanced air force program will be eligible for the new instruction this winter, Heston said.

The instruction will include enough light plane flight training—not less than 35 hours—and enough ground school—35 hours—to qualify a student for his private pilot license. The flying portion of the program will be administered under the Civil Aeronautics administration. There will be no charge to the student.

Flight instruction at OSC is expected to be given by a private air service located at the Corvallis airport. Ground training will be handled by the ROTC staff. Thirty hours of ground work are already included in the present program.
