

Hermiston JV's Downed 39-14; Maupin Here Fri.

By Jim Morris
Heppner's Mustangs gained their first gridiron victory of the 1956 season Friday night September 14 as they bumped the Hermiston J. V.s 39 to 14.
In gaining their first victory of the year, the Mustangs looked much better than they did a week ago. The Horsemen scored 2 T. D.s in each of the first three quarters.
Hermiston netted both of their tallies in the last quarter as the Mustang second stringers entered the game.

The Mustangs had little trouble dominating the game, as they outweighed the Bulldogs.
In the statistics department the Mustangs netted 353 yds. and 8 first downs, to the Bulldogs 214 yards and 5 first downs.
The Heppner gridmen's next encounter will be Friday, September 21 at the Rodeo Field at 8 p. m., when they take on the Maupin Redskins. In their last meeting with the Redskins the Mustangs took a thriller by a 15-6 count, so this shapes up to be a real battle.

Ex-Heppner Woman Moroccan Teacher

Miss Caroline Moyer is the newly appointed principal of the elementary grades in the Nelson C. Brown dependent school at the Nouasseur American air base, French Morocco. Miss Moyer is the daughter of E. W. Moyer and sister of Lucille Owens both of Heppner.

Miss Moyer writes that during the recent Labor Day weekend, she took a conducted tour to the ancient city of Fez which is the oldest city in Morocco. Fez is still the religious capital of western Islam and one of the most Holy cities of the Moslem world.
Last year Miss Moyer taught in Wiesbaden, Germany and during the past summer traveled extensively in Europe. She writes that she likes her new job.

Making and Feeding Silage Discussed

Forage crops harvested as silage rather than hay will save about 30 percent more nutrients and will provide animals with three times as much carotene or vitamin A, report Oregon State college agricultural specialists.

Suggestions by the specialists on how to make, store, and feed silage are included in a 20-page illustrated bulletin just published by the college. Other advantages listed for grass and legume silage over hay from the same crop include from 5 to 10 percent more milk production; all-weather harvesting and storing; and lower requirement of protein supplement.

The new bulletin, "Making and Feeding Grass and Legume Silage", gives recommendations for feeding silage to dairy and beef cattle, sheep, swine and poultry. It also compares nutritional value of different types of silage and discusses silo construction.

Copies of the bulletin are available from county extension agents or the OSC bulletin clerk, Corvallis.
