

County Casts Record Vote Tuesday

Morrow Joins State In Swing To Morse, Ullman and Democrats

Morrow county voters in most cases followed the pattern of the rest of the state except for two or three races which changed Wednesday as more complete returns were tabulated.

The Associated Press figures at 1 p. m. today (Thursday) gave Democrat Robert Holmes a 7,000 vote lead over Elmo Smith for governor. With only 19 precincts still unreported Holmes had 363,556 to Smith's 356,584. Smith held an early lead but Wednesday Holmes passed him and has held the lead since.

With only three precincts still unreported in the second district Democrat Al Ullman held a 1050 vote lead over Sam Coon and Coon is reported to have conceded. The vote stood Ullman 53,057 and Coon 52,007.

Measure number 5, salaries of state legislators, was going down to defeat 325,951 no, to 305,817 yes.

The latest count at 1 o'clock today showed an even division of Democrats and Republicans in the state senate, 15 each, while the Democrats hold 40 house seats to 20 by the Republicans.

The largest number of voters in the history of Morrow county went to the polls Tuesday to choose a predominately Democratic state and national officials. The tally in the county followed almost exactly the feelings of the voters in the rest of Oregon.

The exceptions to the Democratic trend were noted in only five races. Morrow county went along with the rest of the nation in returning President Eisenhower to the White House for another four years, gave Governor Elmo Smith a wide majority in his quest for a full term in Salem, backed Republican Mark Hatfield for Secretary of State, Sig Unander for state treasurer and Allen Tom for state representative from the 22nd district.

Though Morrow county had a majority Republican registration, the vote here crossed party lines, as it did in most sections of Oregon. The number one fight in the state for the U. S. senate seat saw Wayne Morse win over former governor Doug McKay by what will total around 40,000 votes in Oregon, and Morrow voters gave the senator the edge 1120 to 838 for McKay.

Representative Sam Coon failed to carry the county losing to Al Ullman 936 to 1002, and it appeared that Ullman would carry the entire second congressional district with about a 2,000 to 3,000 vote margin.

Vote Follows Pattern

Local voters followed about the same pattern as did the rest of the state in their thoughts on the seven measures. Measure number 1 lost in the county by more than three to one and state-wide it appeared to go down by about the same percentage. The cigarette tax was also defeated here, though not by such a wide margin. The vote was yes, 793, no 1025. The other five measures were given voter approval in the county and also appeared to be winning in the state.

Very Heavy Vote

The vote in the county set a record with 89 percent of the registered voters going to the polls. The heaviest vote was in the presidential race where a total of 2385 votes were cast. Registration in the county is 2385. Hardman took the honors for getting the biggest percentage of its voters out when 33 out of 37 cast their ballots. Lexington ran a close second with 240 out of a total of 266 persons voting.

The election board there reported that of the 26 who didn't vote, it was known that at least a half dozen were deceased or had moved to other precincts.

The largest total vote cast was in the North Heppner precinct where 507 of the 594 registered voters made it to the polls.

BEN MUSA, The Dalles Democrat who defeated John Hounsell in race for state senate.

Musa Wins Senate Seat From Hounsell

State Senator John Hounsell, Republican of Hood River, lost his race for reelection to Ben Musa, The Dalles Democrat. The 16th district comprises Gilliam, Hood River, Morrow, Sherman, Wasco and Wheeler counties.

An incomplete count from four of the six counties in the district gave Musa 2634 and Hounsell 2167. The figures did not include any count from Wasco and Hood River counties, the two largest in the district, but early returns from Wasco county gave Musa better than a 2000 vote lead there. Of the four eastern counties in the district, Hounsell carried only Sherman county, and that by only 29 votes.

Hounsell had served as senator from Hood River county, but the recent redistricting places Morrow, Gilliam, Wheeler and Sherman counties in the same district as the two larger counties.

Musa served one term in the senate from 1948 to 1952.

ALLEN TOM, state representative who was lone Republican in this area to be successful.

C. A. Tom Wins Over Barnett

State representative Charles Allen Tom, Republican, was returned to the house Tuesday when he polled 2788 votes to his opponent, Jerry Barnett of Moro, 2193. All but two precincts in all four counties of the 22nd district were reported by late Wednesday and there was little prospect that the vote there could change the trend.

Tom carried Morrow, Gilliam and Sherman counties by a comfortable margin, but Barnett took a slight edge in Wheeler where he received 587 votes to Tom's 497. Sherman county gave Tom 412 to Barnett's 286 and there was still one big precinct to report but it was thought certain that Tom would at least break even there.

The vote by counties in the district was:

	Tom	Barnett
Morrow	1095	796
Gilliam	754	524
Wheeler	497	587
Sherman	442	286

Open House Set Here During Education Week

The Heppner grade and high schools are inviting all parents and friends to attend classes with their children on November 13, 14 and 15 in observance of American Education Week.

Heppner school superintendent Joe H. Stewart today said, "It is with deep sense of responsibility to the American people and particularly the people of our community that we urge participation in this observance. It is our sincere conviction that public education is the keystone of democracy and the basis for the continuance of our democratic ideals. Education strives hard to create within its charges an awareness of the advantages of an informed population. We maintain that our children, with the ability to choose the right course of action, can be a better safeguard to those principles which we hold dear.

"Feeling this responsibility to you, we ask your cooperation in determining whether we are meeting these objectives," Stewart said.

Parents are also invited to eat lunch with their children in the new cafeteria and to inspect the many improvements made since American Education Week last year, such as the new elementary school, new home economics department, kitchen and improved lunch room facilities.
