Does your husband earn between $2,000 and $9,999 a year?

If so, saving is probably your responsibility.

A recent survey reports that in families with incomes between $2,000 and $9,999 a year, it's the wife who usually pays the bills and keeps track of family finances. And these women are more diligent about saving money than their husbands.

In almost every instance, a family's sound financial standing is dependent as much upon a woman's ability to manage money as it is her husband's ability to make it.

Many women are helping their families win financial independence by encouraging their husbands to invest regularly in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan. It's the easiest way to save—one of the safest—and one of the best ways to guarantee future prosperity.

Once your husband signs up for Payroll Savings, you can relax and know that your saving is being done for you automatically. Each payday a set amount goes into Savings Bonds—where the principal is assured and a good interest is guaranteed.

Say you save just $18.75 every two weeks. In 5 years you'll have a cash backlog of $2,567. In 9 years and 8 months, $5,348. In 19 years and 8 months, $12,894. With a savings program like that, there's no need to worry about cash for sudden illnesses or emergencies.

So help your family win financial security tomorrow—by inspiring your husband to start investing in United States Savings Bonds today.
