SLANTS-

This is an unhappy prospect to farmers, most of whom would be right in the middle of harvest and at the lowest financial ebb of the year.

But all is not gloomy down here. I am pleased to be able to tell you that Senate Bill 213, designating bullfrogs as gamefish, passed the Senate on Monday with but one dissenting vote. Who was the lone skeptic? Senator Anthony Yturri, Ontario.

Tuesday the House defeated House Bill 419, a measure which would give county assessors access to individual income tax returns in the hands of the State Tax Commission for the purpose of discovering possible omitted property. It was attacked on the grounds that

(1) It circumvents the secrecy provision in the state income tax law.

(2) Confusion would be apt to raise from the fact that many farmers, lumbermen, etc. have real and personal property in more than one county.

(3) Machinery on the property tax rolls frequently does not appear on the income tax depreciation account because it has been completely depreciated.

The bill failed with 32 opposition votes. Thursday it was reconsidered by the House and sent back to the taxation committee. This means that after working it over the committee will have another opportunity to send it to the floor. The second effort could be successful, but this sounds like an unworkable piece of legislation. Certainly it cannot be expected to bring in the "millions of dollars in omitted property" of which one of its sponsors so hopefully spoke.

Wednesday the House passed HJR 14 which provides for a Lieutenant Governor. It is to be referred to the people, and will make the sixth time such a measure will have to be voted on by the public. It must still go through the Senate, however, and since it received 16 dissenting votes in the House it may have tough sledding.

On this same morning the House defeated HJR 23, which would have set up a committee of eight to study pardons, commutations and reprieves.

Thursday the House passed HB 321, which sounds to me like the most sensible approach yet to the problem of how to limit the game-hogs among the sports-fishermen and charter-boats, without unduly penalizing legitimate commercial fishermen. It will require all those buying commercial licenses for fish and shellfish to paint certain designated letters for each license on each side of their boats, as well as on the deck or cabin top.

We enjoyed two traditional social events this week. Tuesday night Speaker Pat Dooley and his wife entertained House members, wives and state officials at a reception. Decorations were all in green in honor of the Dooleys and St. Patrick's Day. We were particularly intrigued with the two huge baked salmon which were decorated with shamrocks piped on with green mashed potatoes.

Thursday night we were guests at one of the series of buffet suppers being given by Governor and Mrs. Holmes. It was a most enjoyable evening, casual and informal. Parties such as this, after working hours, give most of us opportunities to become acquainted with other members and their wives which we simply don't have during our rather hectic days.

4-H Club News

LEXINGTON LIVESTOCK CLUB The March meeting of the Lexington Livestock club was held at the Ken Palmer home with all members but one present.

The meeting was called to order by the president Dennis Doherty. Martha Doherty gave a report on minerals that are needed in livestock feeding. Mr. Beach handed out papers on safety to each club member.

Window displays were discussed for 4-H Club Week and it was decided that Mrs. Doherty and Mrs. Wardwell take charge of the displays. Karl Beach, Keith Peck and Dennis Doherty were to work out a report and a demonstration pertaining to 4-H for the Lexington Grange for Saturday night, March 9th.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Palmer. The next meeting will be a potluck at the Roy Martin home. Carol Ann Palmer, reporter

Period For Water Well Registration More Than Half Over

The three-year period provided by the 1955 legislative Assembly for well owners to register their claims for rights to appropriate ground water is more than half over. Failure to register a claim with the state engineer before August 3, 1958, creates the presumption that the well owner has abandoned his claim for a vested ground-water right.

Certain uses of ground water are exempted from registration. These exempted uses include the use of ground water for stock, for watering any lawn or non-commercial garden not exceeding one-half acre in area, for single or group domestic purposes in an amount not exceeding 15,000 gallons a day, or for any single industrial or commercial purpose in an amount not exceeding 5,000 gallons a day.

To be subject to registration, a well in Western Oregon must have been constructed on or before August 3, 1955. This is the date that the ground water act of 1955 became effective. In Eastern Oregon, wells must have been constructed on or before May 28, 1927 for there has been ground-water legislation governing the construction of wells east of the Cascade divide since that time.

Wells for non-exempted uses that have been constructed subsequent to these effective dates without benefit of a permit to appropriate ground water are unlawful wells and are not subject to registration. Owners or operators of wells that are used in unlawful appropriations of ground water should make application to the state engineer for a permit to appropriate ground water. The priority for a water right obtained by a permit is based on the date the application for a permit is filed with the state engineer. A right to appropriate ground water under a registration has a tentative priority based on the date when construction of the well was begun.

Forms and information regarding well registration or permits to appropriate ground water can be obtained by writing to Lewist A. Stanley, state engineer, Salem.
