

WATER FORECASTERS PREDICT BELOW AVERAGE STREAM FLOW IN AREA

HERMISTON—Somewhat shorter than normal water supplies in the Umatilla-Walla Walla Basin seem likely, according to reports at the annual water forecast meeting here Thursday night.

Smaller than normal snow soil moisture conditions on watersheds in the area will cut water supplies to some irrigators, reported W. T. Frost, Oregon snow survey supervisor for the Soil Conservation Service and Oregon State college agricultural experiment station.

Snow cover on the Walla Walla River watershed is only 86 percent of the 15-year average from 1938 to 1952, 82 percent of normal on the Umatilla watershed, and 72 percent of normal on the Willow Creek watershed.

The south fork of the Walla Walla river near Milton was forecast to discharge 58,000 acre feet of water from April through September. This would be only 82 percent of normal.

Runoff of the Umatilla river at Pendleton is expected to total about 155,000 acre feet, 92 percent of average. Streamflow of the Umatilla river near Gibbon has forecast at 80,000 acre feet, also about 92 percent of normal.

McKay Creek flow near Pilot Rock should total about 19,000 acre feet from April through September, Frost said. This would be only 68 percent of the 15-year average. McKay reservoir is now holding 49,500 acre feet, however, reported M. J. Belton, Pendleton, Umatilla county watermaster, which may give a fair irrigation year if spring rains come at the proper times.

Cold Springs reservoir now holds about 40,000 acre feet, and is receiving approximately 400 acre feet a day. This daily supply will need to continue well into June to satisfy irrigation needs in the area, Belton said. Present forecasts will make this possible if farmers are very careful with water they receive.

Birch, Butter, Willow, and Rhea creeks are expected to flow some, what below normal Frost, reported. This may mean an early shut-off date on irrigation from these streams, with the possibility of just one irrigation for many farmers.

At best, there will be no extra water in the area this year, said Bill Bierman, Umatilla county extension agent. He urges farmers to clean their ditches and use every precaution to save water. Even then, there may be many dry pastures in September and October, he added.

NEW TEACHER SALARY SCHEDULE PUTS DISTRICT IN BETTER POSITION

The Heppner school board today revealed its new salary schedule for teachers and a comparison with salaries being paid in other schools in the immediate area. The new schedule puts the county districts in a more favorable position for hiring teachers than did the old schedule which was below most of the surrounding area.

Schedules in general are based on training and experience. It was stated, but they are adapted to local conditions. Most rural and isolated districts find they have to have higher starting salaries than in larger city systems in order to attract teachers. In general they must also remain higher to compensate for other shortcomings such as lack of tenure usually found in a large system.

The new Heppner and Morrow county schedule is: Bachelor degree, minimum $4000, maximum $5550. Five years experience, $4150 and $5700; Masters degree, $4300 and $6000.

Scales in other schools are by comparison: Condon and Arlington, Bachelor $4300 and $4900; Five years $4450 and $6050; masters $4600 and $6200. Pilot Rock, bachelor $4000 and $5700; five years $4150 and $5850; masters $4300 and $6150. Pendleton, bachelor $3700 and $5900; five years $3850 and $6050; masters $4000 and $6400. Hermiston, bachelor $3640 and $5500; five years $3840 and $6000; masters $3940 and $6500. Umatilla, bachelor $3800 and $5500; five years $4000 and $6100; masters $4200 and $6300.

The Heppner budget for superintendent, principals and teachers increased $16,503.91 which includes the addition of a half-time teacher to the staff. Mrs. Lester Boulden, who is teaching half time this year will be employed full time next year and the half time teacher will be used for remedial instruction in the elementary grades.

Other items which caused an increase in the instruction budget are teaching supplies and text books. This is an adoption year, for new texts, and the budget had to be increased $2300 for text books.

Home Landscaping Plant Guide List Published by OSC
A new bulletin designed to help homeowners select the best plants to use in landscaping their homes and surrounding areas has been published by the Oregon State college extension service.

More than 400 plants grown in Oregon are listed in the new bulletin. Plants are classified according to height, with low plants from 6 to 12 inches high to trees over 100 feet high included in the listings.

Growing zones are included as a guide to home owners in various sections of the state. Descriptions include manner of growth, flowering habit and color, scientific name, common name, amount of sun needed, geographical area of adaption in the state, and a brief summary on how to grow the plant.

Special sections also are included on vines, rhododendron culture and health and heather culture. The bulletin, titled "Plant Material for Landscaping," was written by Don Martel, head of the OSC department of landscape architecture. Oregon residents can get a copy at their local county extension office, or from the OSC bulletin clerk in Corvallis.

Those from here who attended the Mid Columbia Women Association of the Congregational churches were Mrs. E. M. Baker, Mrs. Floyd Bailey, Mrs. Carl Bergstrom, Mrs. Dale Ray, Mrs. Fredrick Martin, Mrs. Kenneth Smouse and Mrs. Della Corson. Mrs. Bailey had charge of the morning worship and Mrs. Smouse played a violin solo, "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Baker. Other numbers on the program were pictures and talks by Mrs. Sherwood Moran, a missionary in Japan and Mrs. J. T. Gordon of Portland on her trip to Europe.

Sunday guests at the Elbe Akers home were Mr. and Mrs. James Heatherly of St. Helens, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Leosis of Walla Walla, and Mrs. Vera Portis of Heppner. The women are sisters of Mrs. Akers.

Mrs. Dorothy Ledbetter of Hood River spent last week with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ring. Charles Carlson made a business trip to Portland this week. Shirlee McGree, student at the University of Oregon, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Troedson.

THE MERRY TAILORS
The merry Tailors held their fourth meeting on the afternoon of March 22 at the home of Marjorie O'Connor.

We started out by singing "Home On The Range" and "On Top of Old Smokey". For refreshments we had cupcakes, jello and coolade. Then the club started working on their scarves again. Arleta McCabe and Cheryl Lundell have their scarves done.

Our next meeting will be Saturday afternoon of April 6 at the home of Sandra Eubanks. Cheryl Lundell, reporter

BOARDMAN ITEMS

Wool Incentive Pay Forms Due April 30

Sheep raisers must file applications before April 30 to collect incentive payments for shorn wool and unshorn lambs sold during the past year, reminds W. Y. Fowler, Oregon State college livestock marketing specialist.

Payments are for sales made during the past year, ending March 31. Applications should be filed at the county agricultural stabilization and conservation offices. The incentive payment program was started by the U. S. department of agriculture in 1955 to boost sheep numbers in this country that have declined most of the time for the past 20 years.

Incentive payments will be figured on the same basis as last year—a percentage "bonus" applied to the individual grower's net sales proceeds. In other words, Fowler says, the better the grower's sale the bigger the bonus. Details of how the incentive program works are available from local ASC offices or county extension offices.

Mrs. Frank Turner and sister, Mrs. Sophie Barr of Portland are vacationing in San Francisco.
