HIS GRADUATION
PRESENTS ...

A TWO-WHEEL BIKE AND A U. S. SAVINGS BOND

Tommy Robinson graduates from kindergarten this spring and his father promised him a two-wheeler. Really makes you feel you're getting on in the world when you move out of the tricycle class... good reason for the proud swell of Tommy's chest, the look of accomplishment on his face.

But Tommy will outgrow the two-wheeler, too, and many other things. So his wise father invested in another gift that will grow with him—a U. S. Series E Savings Bond.

A Savings Bond is a gift that's appropriate for any graduate—from kindergarten to law school. It's a sure way to help bring about the realization of commencement dreams. And it's so easy to buy—no sizes or colors to worry about. So wonderful to receive—a gift that keeps increasing in value.

If you have a favorite young person graduating soon, why not give the present with a future, a U. S. Series E Savings Bond? And let graduation time remind you of your own future and how Savings Bonds can help make it secure. May is Minute Man Month—a good time to start buying Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or regularly where you bank.
