DOG BITE CASES HERE PROMPT WARNING BY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

As a result of two cases of dog bite in Heppner this past week, the Morrow county health department issued the following warning: In all cases of animal bite wash the wound under running water to remove the animal's saliva, then go to a physician as quickly as possible to have the wound thoroughly cleaned and treatment given.

Whether or not the wounded person requires the Pasteur treatment for prevention of rabies depends upon the discretion of the physician and whether the animal is rabid.

To determine whether the biting animal is rabid, the health department asks that it be shut up securely for 10 to 14 days and watch it closely for symptoms, but do not kill the animal. Any animal that appears sick, irritable, unduly excited, paralyzed, etc., is suspect.

Should the animal be killed before the owner is notified to pen it up, the health department asks that it be notified for instructions on how to send the animal's head to the state board of health laboratory for study.

All dog owners are urged to have their dogs immunized for rabies and to keep them at home.

Improvements Seen at Boardman Cemetery

Visitors to Boardman River-view cemetery Memorial Day saw a vast change there with the green grass and shrubs and flowers growing, in place of the sagebrush plots that were there when the cemetery was started in 1920.

In past years a great effort on the part of a few citizens has been made to beautify the cemetery. Clyde Tannehill, the late Leo Root and Mrs. Root, along with others worked many hours seeding the lawn, and watering it from the river with a pump. Two years ago a well was drilled and a pump house built. The past two years Zearl Gillespie, aided by Seth Russell has taken care of the lawn and now it is as beautiful as any small cemetery of its size. Gillespie put in many hours of work this spring to get the cemetery ready for Memorial Day and visitors commented on the change there.
