Predatory Animal Allocation Made

Thirty-three Oregon counties will participate in the $30,000 of state money allocated for predatory animal control in the year ending next June 30.

To obtain these funds, which range from $229 in Hood River county to $2980 in Douglas county, counties must match the state monies, says M. E. Knickerbocker, animal division chief for the state department of agriculture.

The appropriation is in connection with the predatory animal program conducted jointly by the counties, the U. S. fish and wildlife service and the state department.

The state allotment for Morrow county is $734.

Kenneth Johnson of Condon was in Heppner on Tuesday.
