ROSY SAYS: Here are three reasons why you should buy that new car now: 1. You may never see new cars priced as low as they are now. 2. You can get more for your trade-in right now than you can 30 days from now. 3. You get more of everything that is new in the 1957 Ford. Some of the 1958 cars will not be as modern as the 1957 Ford. The best estimates are that new cars will be priced from 4 to 5 percent above present prices, based on prices already announced on new trucks and tractors. A word to the wise is sufficient.

A lot of work has been done by many state colleges and commercial feed handlers on the value of hay made into pellets. Recently Oregon State college summarized some of the known information. First they listed the advantages; less feed wasted, less hauling and storage space, less labor, mechanical handling and possibly more dry matter eaten.
Experiments show that increased rate of gain on less total feed has been demonstrated for lambs and yearling steers. Illinois reports timothy-alfalfa mixed pelleted hay fed free choice to calves resulted in 50% more dry matter eaten and 90% more gain per ton of feed over either baled or chopped hay. Ohio reports increased gain in dairy calves when fed a pelleted coarse ground hay and grain mixture. Pelleted hay takes about one half the space of baled hay and fifth the space of chopped hay. Listed as disadvantages were: cost, no commercial machines now available for large pellets of coarse chopped hay. Dairy cows fed ground pelleted hay had a greatly reduced butterfat test. There is a lot of interest now in a machine to pellet hay in the field. California has done some work along this line; capacity and cost are the main problems. More technical information on feeding, rates of gain, carcass yields and grades under various conditions are available at the office for those who are interested.

received at the office during the past week it appears that a lot of grass and alfalfa is going to be seeded this fall and early next spring. There may be a number of reasons for this however, my guess is that there are two that are most important; one is the rock bottom cheap price of grass and legume seed; the other is the excellent soil moisture conditions we have now. Some of the seedings will amount to several hundred acres. Some will be put in the Soil Bank, other seedings will be used for pasture. If you have been considering doing some of this seeding, better consider now while grass and legume seed prices are low and soil moisture conditions are as good as they can ever be.
