ODD ENDS...

VIOLATORS BEWARE

Starting this week the Gazette Times, along with many other Oregon newspapers, start the publication of names of drivers who have had their drivers license suspended. The name are given publicity not for the purpose of causing such persons additional embarrassment but to advise the general public that those persons, if they continue to drive as some are doing, are doing so in violation of the law. In most cases suspensions were ordered because those drivers were a menace, in some degree, to the careful driver.

This paper will publish only the names of those persons living in Morrow county and such publication will not be "played up" but they will appear, as they occur, with other court news.

It is our hope that such publication will serve as a deterrent to persons who might be inclined to violate traffic laws.

POLITICS PLAYED A HAND

Oregon's Democratic party pretty well proved why they have not held too many state offices in past years by their recent actions during the special session of the legislature. They were working, first of all, for their own political benefit, and second for the people of the state.

True, the Republicans may have been stretching a point a little in wanting all the treasury surplus returned because nobody could prove that all the money would be available to refund, but the Demos showed their hand when they tried very hard to save the money to be able to make political hay with it during the next session. Such action can hardly be called working for the best interests of the state, and that's what our elected representatives are sent to Salem for.

ON ART APPRECIATION

None-of-our-business-but-we-cant-resist-the-temptation-department.

Been enjoying the reader comment recently in the EO about Dirtyshoes Thompson's views on the Pendleton ballet presentation. When we read the original we thought it might bring forth quite a variety of criticism—and it sure did.

So we've been informed, ballet, like other forms of art, has a story to tell and, like all stories or works of art, how such works are interpreted is subject to various interpretations of the artist or the viewer. We can well understand that not every viewer of ballet or an abstract painting, either, for example, will see in the work the same thing that someone else might. Thompson saw it in one light while some of the connoisseurs of fine art apparently looked at the show a little differently.

Who is to say that Dirtyshoes didn't enjoy the presentation just as much as the other group? In fact, we think he did a pretty good job of interpreting what he saw and putting it in a form that the general reading public could understand. Just because he didn't see the same things as someone else doesn't mean he's wrong, does it?

THIRTY YEARS AGO

From the Files of the Gazette Times
November 24, 1927

Miss Margaret Woodson, a graduate of Heppner high school, class of '22, daughter of the late C. E. Woodson, has completed her course in law at the University of Oregon and has "hung out her shingle" in the city of Eugene, thus becoming the first feminine lawyer of the University town.

Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Leach of Pendleton are guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. McMurdo today.

G. E. McCraw, wife and son of Coquille arrived in Heppner on Tuesday and are visiting at the home of Mr. McCraw's uncle, Mel Humphreys, on Eight Mile.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Palmer who live near Lexington were visitors here on Tuesday.

W. A. Ayers, Eight Mile Center merchant, was attending to business matters in Heppner on Tuesday.

rollment was in clothing with 78 members enrolled.

These boys and girls carried as projects poultry, 302 birds; 9 dairy cattle; 51 beef; 96 sheep; 117 swine, 150 rabbits and 6 saddle horses. Also carried were 1 tractor in the tractor maintenance project and 30 electricity articles. Members carrying the cooking project prepared 1994 dishes and served 347 meals; canning club members canned or pre-

Heppner High School SCOOP

By Jan Beamer

A success was made of National Education Week, report school officials. Many parents and friends visited, to the pleasure of all. The results were, seniors, first; sophomores and juniors tied for second and third and the frosh 4th.

Students favorite song this week seems to be "A Whole Lot of Flunking Going On!" Report cards came out last Thursday. New additions in rooms concerning the results included the seniors—a crying towel hung up by served 314 1/2 quarts of food, freezing 30 quarts. Clothing members made 316 articles. Forty-one local leaders in charge of the 32 clubs saw the result of 93% completion of members enrolled.

In addition to the project work carried by club members many activities were participated in by these boys and girls. At the annual 4-H summer camp a total of 79 attended. The 5 day camp consisted of supervised recreation, crafts, nature study and wildlife conservation, evening campfires and Sunday church services. Attending the annual summer school at Corvallis for a 10-day period were 35 boys and girls. Thirteen members participated in the Oregon Wheat League show and sale while 67 took part in a livestock field day at the Alfred Nelson farm in late May. Almost all of the club members enrolled participated in the annual county fair.

the bulletin board along with a personalized sign.

HHS students visiting Heppner high this week were Jesse Smallwood, Chuck Bevan, Conrad Lesser and Ralph Mariatt. All are home on leave from the various branches of the service.

The paper staff gladly welcomes back their teacher, Mrs. Kirk, who just got out of the hospital. The paper came out on schedule anyway, but her assistance was missed.

Mr. Flug gave a lecture to the social ec class on sociology. Mr. Stewart who is now in Spokane for the Northwest Drive-In conference, is the regular teacher, and will return Wednesday.

Carole Groshens, Tom Currin were interviewed on the radio over KUBE which is the Heppner program on Wednesday mornings. Every senior is having a chance to be on the radio, of which many have already appeared. Going to Soroptimist Thursday will be Janice Beamer. Here also, every senior girl will be able to attend, with the senior boys attending Chamber of Commerce.

Awards announced during the past week are: Ed Groshens, senior citizen of the month; Dick Ruhl, most valuable player; Kay Corbin, most outstanding line-man; and Jim Morris, most outstanding back.

Keeping up social wise, most students have been going bowling, having dancing and slumber parties, and a few playing golf. Basketball practice will now be taking up most of the boys time, since try-outs started Nov. 18. For the girls, volleyball try-outs also started Nov. 18. Both teams will be announced at a later date.

From The County Agent's Office

By N. C. Anderson

Registration in preparation for the Oregon Beef Commission opened this Wednesday with registration forms available at this office. Producers of cattle (beef and/or dairy breeds) must register with the State Department of Agriculture to vote in the producer referendum which will be announced soon. Registration must show the total number of cattle reported by each producer to his county assessor as of January 1, 1957. A decision to vote on the creation of an Oregon Beef Commission was made after 17 hearings throughout the state. Morrow County Livestockgrowers association has gone on record at two of their annual meetings favoring a beef commission. It is hoped that cattlemen will register soon so that an early announcement will be possible of termination of the registration period and dates set for the referendum to be held.

Polled Hereford breeders, Bernard Doherty, Don Robinson and

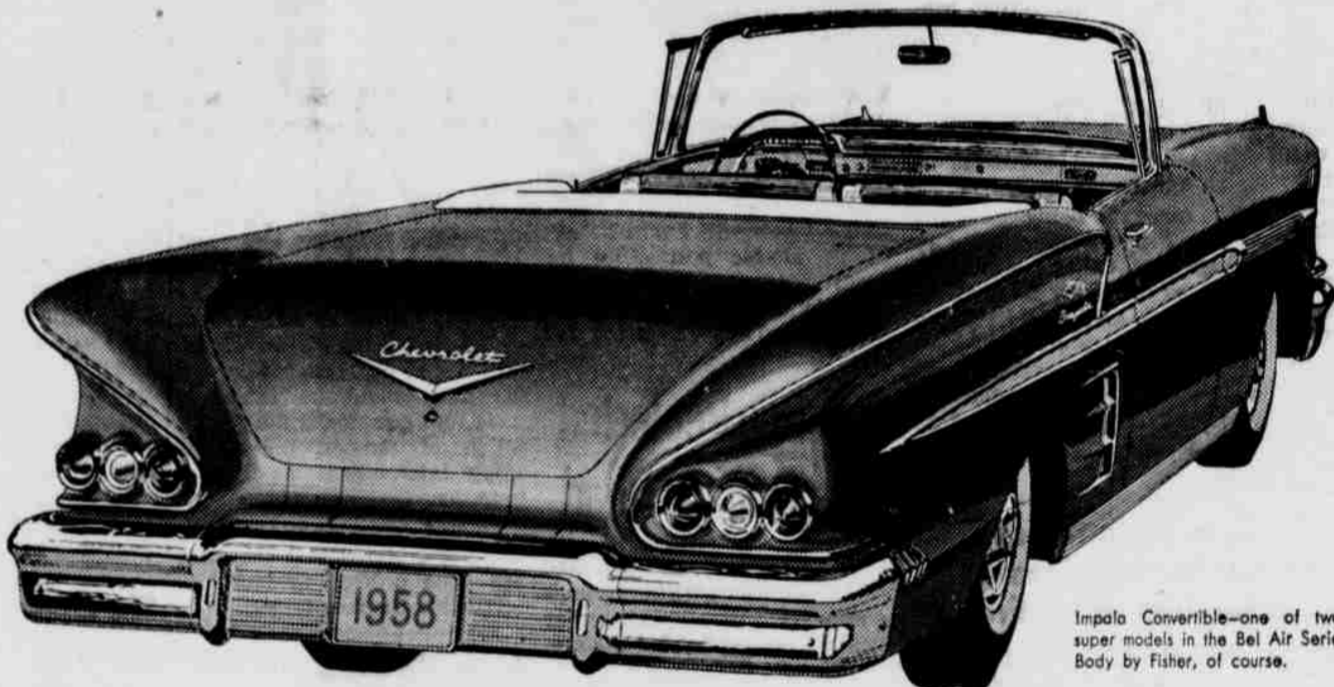

Jack Sumner were recent consignees to the Round-Up Hereford sale held in Pendleton at which time 45 bulls and 11 heifers were sold. Those who have a record of buying bulls at this sale from our county are Wilkinson Estate, Ray Wright and Floyd Worden, Heppner, and Marion Palmer, Jone.

Considerable interest has been shown in the purchase of Tillamook Dairy Herd Improvement association heifer calves by Morrow county farmers this fall. Word comes from Howard Smith, Tillamook county agent that this interest seems to prevail all over this fall from the number of inquiries that they have had. For those who are interested in these calves, it might be a good plan to get your order in early. You can take delivery any time you wish. Information and order blanks are available at this office.

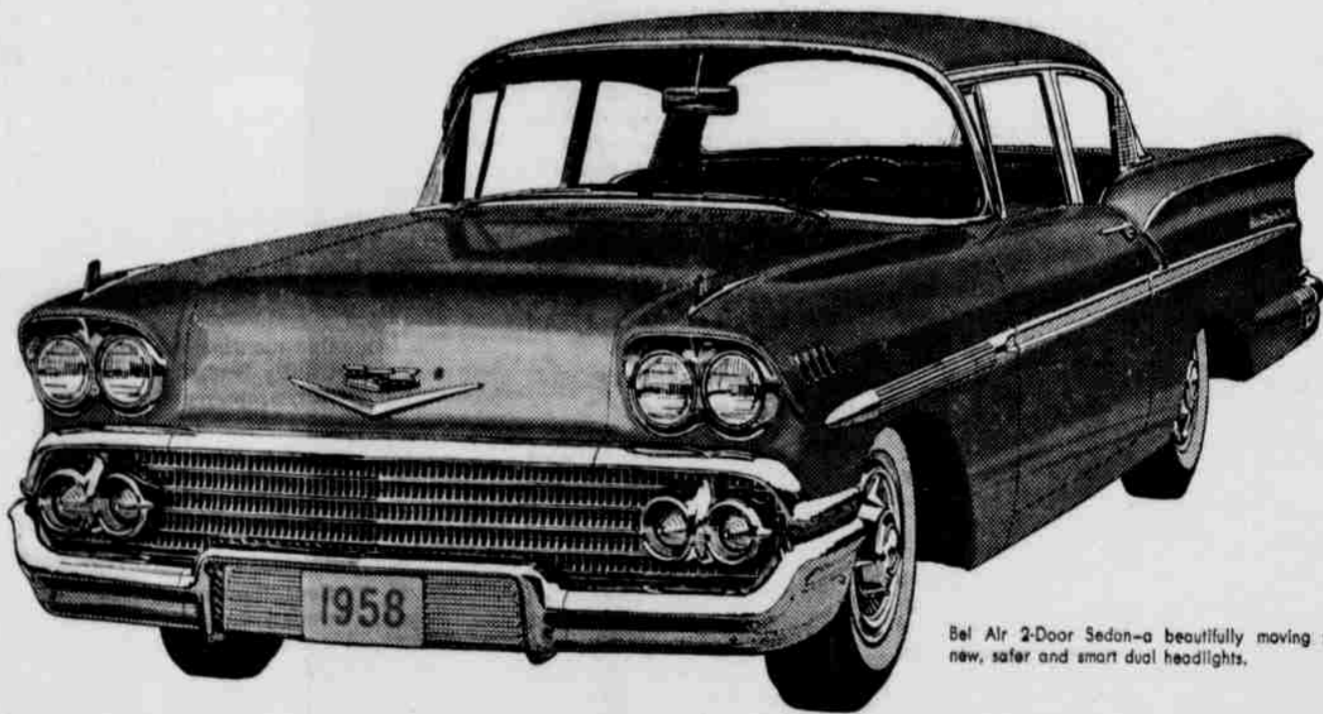

We hope to see everyone at the Farm-City week banquet to be held at the Legion hall at Heppner Nov. 25 at 6:30 p.m. Farm-City week is being observed Nov. 22 through Nov. 28. Whether our farmers attend the banquet or not we think it might be a good idea to take advantage of this week in some way to further public relations between the farmer and our city people.

This is the time of year when the county agent's annual report is being completed. In fact, this job was completed in our office this week. When the accumulative results of extension work is put together at the end of the year, many times interesting facts are revealed. A summary of 4-H projects and activities for the year was of much interest. It showed that 32 4-H clubs had enrolled, 196 boys and girls who carried 270 projects which consisted of poultry, dairy, beef, sheep, swine, rabbits, horses, electricity, tractor maintenance, cooking, sewing, canning and junior leadership. The largest en-
