ed by the state department of justice was announced this week by Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton. On Dec. 6 the first of a series of monthly programs in legal training was held. Additional programs are scheduled for January and February.
The selection of subjects are intended to give better qualifications to the assistant attorney generals in the discharge of their duties with the various state agencies to which they are assigned.
Farm Land Values Hit Record High; Farm Numbers Drop
Value of farm land in Oregon has hit a new high, according to Mrs. Elvera Horrell, extension agricultural economist at Oregon State college. At the same time, the number of farms in the state has dropped to the lowest total in 30 years.
Farm land values in the state have increased steadily during the last three years, and now average 7 percent over a year ago. As a result, farm land values are now more than 40 percent above the 1947-1949 average.
As spectacular as this rise seems, the Oregon gains are still below the average for the rest of the nation, Mrs. Horrell said. Reports from the U. S. department of agriculture show farm land values over the nation up 8 percent in the last 12 months, and now better than 50 percent above the 1947-1949 average.

Farmers are continuing to buy land to increase the size and efficiency of their farms, and this has been one of the major influences on the value of farm land, Mrs. Horrell pointed out. However, this is reducing the total number of farms in the state. USDA figures show there are now about 56,300 farms in Oregon, compared to a peak of 64,800 farms in 1935.
Many non-farmers are also buying farm land—some as an investment, others for rural homes or part-time farms. Mrs. Horrell found. Still another upward pressure on farm land values comes from the purchase of farm land for non-farm use. Across the nation, it has been estimated that about 20 million acres—nearly 4 times Oregon's total cropland acreage—was converted to non-agricultural use between 1942 and 1956.
The new federal highway system alone will take some two-thirds million acres of rural land out of crop production during the next several years, Mrs. Horrell reported.
Those analyzing the situation say they can see nothing new for 1958 that would reverse any of these farm land value trends. But they do see a possibility that the gain may not be so large, Mrs. Horrell said.
Mrs. Mary Carter of Portland arrived today (Thursday) to spend the Christmas holidays at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Schaffitz.

OSC Bulletin Gives Pie Making Pointers
As kitchens bustle with activity for holiday entertaining, pie-making hints and recipes are offered Oregon cooks in a new Oregon State college extension circular, "Make Mine Pie".
Copies are available on request to Oregon residents at all county extension offices or from the OSC bulletin clerk.
Beginning cooks and experienced hands alike can produce excellent pies by following recipes carefully, says author Mrs. Ruth Klippstein, OSC's nutrition specialist.
An outline of ingredients needed for good pastry, method of mixing, baking instructions, and suggested fillings and toppings are included in the circular. It is punched for easy insertion into standard cookbooks or notebooks.
Recipes for soft wheat flour crust, meringue shells, Oregon walnut pie, and a new pretzel crust for cheese pies, are all found in the circular.
HEPPNER FORESTER ETTS
The Forester Etts met Saturday Dec. 14 at the home of Mrs. Jack Van Winkle. They made Christmas center pieces and wreaths. After the meeting they had refreshments. There were seven members present.

Miss Warner was selected after illness prevented Senator Monroe Sweetland from attending the memorial ceremony as the state's representative at this the 16th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor.
19c Hamburger Quiz
Standards for fresh pork sausage and hamburger (ground beef, ground round) drawn up under the Oregon Food Act, for particular use at retail store level, but yet uniform with standards applied at the manufacturing and wholesale level will be revamped at a hearing held by the state department of agriculture Tuesday, Dec. 17, at the Agriculture Building, Salem.
The proposed Standards for hamburger include a requirement that the meat could not contain more than 30 per cent analyzable fat. Hamburger could also contain as optional ingredients ascorbic acid (sodium ascorbate, Vitamin C), and mono sodium glutamate, provided these optional ingredients were included on the label.
Real Estate Tests
The list of failures was unusually high in state real estate brokers examinations conducted last week by State Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde.
Only 11 applicants were successful. Of the 101 applicants in the real estate salesmen examinations 78 were successful while 23 failed.
