CAPITAL PARADE
 His thesis is entitled "Study of are Development of Legislation Affecting the Selection of Text-books in the United States."

The study details for the first time anywhere all of the laws which have been passed in the United States concerning text-books.

Hall joined the state department in 1949.

TAX BOARD TO MEET
 The Legislative Interim Tax Committee has been called to meet at the Capitol in Salem Friday and Saturday. The two-day session, Feb 21 and 22, was called by the acting chairman Sen Walter J Pearson, Portland Democrat.

TAX REFUNDS START
 Friday morning the automatic check writing machine in the state tax commission started on one of its biggest jobs turning out income tax refunds on 1957 income taxes. Part of the refunds to most people represent the 20 per cent tax reduction voted by the Legislature to justify the millions "over charged" and previously collected.

The 20 per cent refund was the result of the stalemate in the Senate of 15 Democrats and 15 Republicans. The Democrats did not want to refund as much as the 20 per cent. The 15 Republicans wanted to give back more and set their mark for a 30 per cent refund. The 15 Democrats, led by Governor Holmes held for 10 per cent. The 20 per cent refund was a compromise.

OREGON JOB SERVICE
 Graduates of 160 Oregon high schools last year used the job testing, counseling and placement facilities of the State Employment Service. That amounts to two-thirds of the high schools. The total is 10 per cent greater than in 1956.

Oregon Conference For Small Business Planned March 13-15
 OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Oregon will be the first state in the nation next month to have a statewide conference for small business as recommended at the national meeting called last September by President Eisenhower.

The state conference on research and development for the benefit of small business is scheduled March 13 to 15 at Oregon State college. Governor Robert Holmes is honorary chairman and will be opening-day luncheon speaker.

The sessions will center around how research can help small business in developing new products, improving old products, and in providing new and better manufacturing methods and market and sales methods. Oregon has some 35,000 businesses with less than 50 employees.

Services and help available to small business from state and federal agencies, commercial organizations, research institutes and educational institutions will be discussed and sources of research and development information emphasized. Question-and-answer periods are planned to give small businessmen an opportunity to discuss their individual problems and programs with conference experts.

Top state and national government and business leaders will speak at the conference and various state and federal agencies and business and industrial groups will participate in the program and serve as sponsors.

Milton H Mater, president of a small Corvallis manufacturing firm, will be conference chairman.

Members of the advisory committee helping to plan the conference includes Sid Woodbury, chairman, and Julius Jensen, executive director, Oregon department of planning and development; Harold K Cherry, Portland office, U S department of commerce; John G Barnett, Portland office, small business administration; and Dr A L Strand, president of Oregon State college.

Hot Chocolate For Warm Hearts

There's one thing just about everyone agrees on—that winter time is "hot chocolate milk time." A hot chocolate beverage has no equal as a warmer-upper to take the chill out of your bones. It warms up the inner man (or woman) but best of all it helps provide that extra energy we all need these cold winter days.

Time was that preparing a hot chocolate drink meant dirtying pans and utensils, and maybe the kitchen range if the milk boiled over—which it frequently did. Today's homemaker has been spared all this. She can produce a rich, creamy hot chocolate beverage in a jiffy, thanks to modern dairy science. With crystal-form Carnation instant chocolate flavored drink, it's so simple even a child can do it. Simply add hot water and stir. It can be made right in the cup—no fuss, no bother. There's no need to add milk because this instant chocolate flavored drink is made of nonfat dry milk with chocolate flavoring and contains all the protein, calcium and B-vitamins of whole milk.
