

Mid-Spring Slump Seen by OSC For Cattle, Hog Prices

Cattle and hog prices appear headed for a mid-spring slump getting off to an excellent start in 1958, reports W Y Fowler, Oregon State college livestock marketing specialist.

Liveweight prices for choice cattle that recently reached $29 a hundredweight—highest price since November 1952—are likely to drop $3 in April and May with some piling up of marketings. Fowler says cattle marketed in the next three months may also weigh heavier than usual.

The specialist looks for prices to recover slightly this summer but not back to present high levels. Slaughter cattle prices next fall will be tied closely to pork supplies, that are likely to be heavy, and to general business conditions.

Fowler says 1958 looks like a record year for cattle feeding. Coupled with this is the prospect of considerable beef from foreign countries arriving on West Coast markets soon.

With large beef supplies tending to lower prices, most profits in cattle feeding will have to come from weight gains rather than any price differential between feeder and slaughter grades, the specialist explains.

Meanwhile, the present build-up in cattle numbers appears headed for a cutback with fewer beef cows and heifers on U S farms now than a year ago. Fowler believes the down-trend is likely to continue for a year or two, level out, and start up by 1960 or 1961.

Hog prices probably have hit a high, the specialist reports, while pork prices may hold up better than beef this spring, larger marketings, heavier animals and lower prices are predicted for next fall. This is a result of a large spring pig crop throughout the nation and plentiful feed supplies.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

James F Short, State Republican Chairman, made a statement Thursday on Republican principles adopted by the GOP action committee. They champion free enterprise, deplore the tendency toward big government and concentration of power at a federal level and advocate strengthening of government at a local level.

The principles favor maximum development of electric power by agencies both public and private to meet needs.

Plans for the coming election campaigns include use of a public relations program, better committee organization and a greater role for county organizations. He said emphasis is being given to a candidate assistance program, including a candidate school to be held after the primaries in May.

HOME-MADE ROCKETS

A bill will be introduced at the Youth Legislature in Salem, April 24-26, to regulate home-made rockets. "Sending a rocket through the atmosphere" without a state fire marshal rocket-launching permit would be subject to a $500 fine or six months in jail.

The proposal was prompted by the flurry of dangerous amateur rocketry and the following accidents this year.

Another act would provide up to $10,000 in disability payments from the State to the dependents of any person killed or disabled in a gun accident.

VOTING REGISTRATIONS UP

More voters are registering this year than in previous elections and getting it done earlier, according to reports from Western Oregon county officials. As an example 49,241 voters have registered in Marion county so far, to vote at the May primary election. There were only 52,394 voters registered for the November election in 1956, in this county.

April 15 is the deadline for registering for the May primary election.

HATFIELD HEADQUARTERS

Portland headquarters for Secretary of State Mark Hatfield, Republican candidate for governor at the May primary election, were opened Wednesday at 11th and Washington Streets. The Salem headquarters were opened last week at 230 N Liberty beneath a large street banner. Mrs Robert D Gregg is in charge of the Salem office. Mrs Paul Daughtrey is in charge of the Portland office which occupies the entire lower floor of the old Telegram building.

Although there was no public announcement or personal bids, the large space was amply filled with well-wishers, on the opening nights of the two offices.
