Over The Tee Cup

By Jackie Labhart

Rain, rain, go away: We golfers want to play: This persistent precipitation is causing agonizing anticipation as to when spring is gonna sprung. If this liquid sunshine keeps pouring out of the sky we will soon need diving suits; for Willow creek is almost over its banks along several fairways.

An even dozen determined damsels defied the wintry winds and somber skies to join in our first hilarious "fun day" competition. The rules for the course were as follows: No 1-use only 7 or 8 iron and putter, No 2-sit on chair to tee off, No 3-approach green through stakes, No 4-putt with hammer, No 5-hit ball and crawl through box, No 6-use woods only, No 7-putt left handed, No 8-play regularly, No 9-putt with hammer. The gullible gals who played this "obstacle" course were Ruth Van Winkle, Cathy Collins, Lucille Peck, Gladys Heliker, Jan Downen, Shirley Loyd, Cork Norene, Kay Robinson, Hester Creswick, Dee Gribble, Marie McQuarrie, Bonnie Maton, and me. Prizes for this nefarious nine holes were awarded to the following: Marie was our "champeen" hammer putter, Gladys Heliker had the most strokes. (It was just a bad day to pick for playing our course the first time). Jan, our shortest gal, had the longest drive while sitting down, and I had the least number of strokes for the nine holes. (Made the best score I've had all spring... just goes to show I'm no "ordinary" golfer).

HILARIOUS HAPPENINGS — Marie unconsciously smoking her tee until reminded that her cigarette might taste a little better. Cork trying to hit her ball out of the box on No 5 hole...Jan and Hester driving on to the highway, but not in their cars, (wonder if their is auto insurance covering collision with a golf ball?) ... Bonnie remarking, "Boy, if I'd have hit the first one I swung at, it would still be going." (If the most oft used word in the golfing vocabulary)...Kay, so supercharged with chagrin, that with one splashing stroke she lofted her ball out of a two inch water hole onto the green, and then couldn't see the ball for the mud on her glasses...Lucille paring one hole with a ten foot hammer putt.

It sure seems grand to have all nine holes now, but the last hole could become somewhat dangerous to the passing motorist, as it parallels the highway. And speaking of new improvements, we also have printed score cards now, complete with the rules of the course and the par for each hole. Now hear this: The men's par is 29 and we, the much weaker sex, (only in golfing of course) must shoot a 30. Was nice of the rules committee to allow us at least one more stroke. The score cards donated by Lowell Gribble are in the box by the bulletin board, built by Jack Loyd, along with two boxes of pencils and a pencil sharpener.

I think Dee Gribble should become a professional golfing instructor! She took me down to the course Monday to help me with my game—and she certainly did. The following is a little free "Dear Dee" advice to the gloveworm golfer. "Keep your left arm straight, then bend your knees. Your head must stay down, and your body at ease. Then swing that club and get under the ball. Then follow through and stand up tall".

While I am on the subject of Dee, I heard that her husband, Lowell drove the green on the No 4 hole with a four iron—and that hole is 320 yards long. (I should live so long.)

I WONDER...why Ned Sweek was only one of the few to brave the weekend storm to play golf...where the lone gals were ladies day...how Velma Glass and Hester Creswick survived the torrentious downpour Monday...how the holes got in McCurdy's lawn...if the Wishing Well has any coffee left...if Hazel and Phil played any golf on their trip...how we'll do in the tournament at Pendleton.

As I drain the last drop from my tee cup this week, I see that the sky has also rained its last drop for the day...and blue skies prevail. I wonder...

Heppner High School SCOOP

By JAN BEAMER

This week was quite a hectic one for most Heppner High students. Ready for the band carnival, 2 baseball games, a track meet and a dance at Pendleton fill the week's agenda.

Litterbug week was really great. The school has the brightest, re-arranged look it's had for years. The dance Friday evening was also a great success. Students have been reminded that library books must be turned in May 1, so that packing may be started. A time limit of 3 days has been set for magazine references.

The Mustang staff has announced that the annuals will go on a fall delivery basis because a better financial arrangement can be made. However, autograph sheets that paste in the back of our annuals will be issued before school is dismissed. Seniors will have their year-books mailed to them, while underclassmen will receive theirs on registration day. This will enable many more to get signatures.

Prom invitations and graduation announcements are being mailed now. Juniors are busy with decoration plans for the Banquet and Prom.

The 1958 Seniors have released information pertaining to graduation. Class Motto: "We Have Crossed The Valley, The Mountains Await Us." Class Flower: Rose. Class Color: Old Rose and Silver. Class Baccalaureate And Graduation Information: Baccalaureate will be held at the Christian church; the commencement speaker, Mr Forster who is the editor of the East Oregonian; Ushers for baccalaureate are: Marilyn Calvin, Carol Anderson, Kay Keithly, Dick Robison, Bob Mahoney, and Ned Clark. They are also usher for graduation.

Heppner FBLA members, advisors and sponsors had a wonderful banquet Tuesday evening at the high school. The Bank of Eastern Oregon was host to the event, where Helen Graham was presented a plaque for the most outstanding business leader in the senior class. Other awards were presented, and are explained in detail in the next issue of the HEHISCH.
