IONE COMMUNITY CHURCH SCENE OF MCKINNEY-McCABE WEDDING

By ECHO PALMATEER
Miss Grace Louise McCabe, daughter of Mr and Mrs L A McCabe, became the bride of Leonard O McKinney, son of Mr and Mrs Earl McKinney Sunday, June 22 at 4 pm at the Ione Community church. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev Floyd S Bailey, pastor of the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a part nylon dress over taffeta, a pleated tulle panel in the skirt front and the collar and sleeves were edged in pleated tulle ruffles. The dress was white with bouffant skirt. The collar was worn by the bride's grandmother, Mrs Arthur Keene and by her great-grandmother, Mrs Anna Mitchell Campbell. It was 95 years old, hand made with punch work embroidery. Her finger tip veil was held by a pill box head piece trimmed with pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible and a white orchid.

The matron of honor was her sister, Mrs James Pettyjohn and the brides maids were Mrs Alvin McCabe, the bride's sister-in-law and Miss Kay Sherer. They all wore blue polished cotton dresses with matching velvet sashes and with matching knit head pieces and carried blue daisy nosegays. The matron or honor's nosegay had blue and yellow daisies. The flower girls were Christine McCabe, sister of the bride, and Linda Pettyjohn, niece of the bride. They wore blue dresses and carried blue daisy nosegays. Earl James Pettyjohn, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Malcolm McKinney was his brothers best man. The ushers were Alvin McCabe, brother of the bride, Keith Barnett, cousin of the groom and Richard Sherer.

Orville Ruggles, uncle of the groom, sang, I Love You Truly and the Lord's Prayer accompanied by Miss Karen Lundell, cousin of the bride. She also played the wedding music.

The bride wore for something old, her collar, something new was her dress, something borrowed was her veil from her cousin, Mrs James Green and a cameo pin from Mrs Loy McFerrin and something blue was a garter made by her sister, Mrs Pettyjohn. She wore a penny with the year of her birth in her shoe.

Mrs Keith Rea and Miss Marjorie Baker were the candle lighters. They wore yellow polished cotton dresses with matching head pieces of net with white Esther Reed daisies and matching velvet sashes.

The altar flowers in the church were yellow gladioli, and yellow and blue daisies. There were also baskets of white daisies and blue delphinium about the church.

The brides mother wore a rose dress with white accessories and the grooms mother wore a sheer dress of blue and rose with match accessories. They both had corsages of pink rose buds.

A reception followed in the church parlors. The wedding cake was first cut by the bride and groom and then by Mrs Charles Ingalls, aunt of the bride, Mrs Willard Barnett, aunt of the groom, Mrs Arthur Keene, grandmother of the bride and Miss Mabel McCabe, great aunt of the bride.

Pouring coffee were Mrs Allie Ruggles and Mrs Fred Cole, both grandmothers of the groom; at the punch bowl were Mrs Roy Campbell, great aunt of the bride and Mrs Franklin Ely. Grooms cake was served by Mrs Orville Ruggles, aunt of the groom, Mrs Lloyd Howton, Mrs Harold Sherer and Mrs E Markham Baker; Mrs James Green and Mrs Malcolm McKinney had charge of the gift table; Arleta McCabe and Kathy Keene, both cousins of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Pamela McCabe had charge of the rice.

Mrs Earl McCabe had charge of the reception assisted by Mrs Howard Eubanks, Mrs Ernest McCabe and Mrs Raymond Lundell. Those assisting about the rooms were Anne Belle Coleman, Bonnie Crum and Cheryl Lundell.

For going away the bride chose a pink and white striped sheath dress with white accessories and her orchid.
