Youth Group Plans Visit to Church Home in Beaverton
 The high school class of the First Christian church Bible school will go to Beaverton Sunday, Nov 2 to visit the Northwestern Christian home for the aged. The group, under the direction of their minister, the Rev Charles Knox will conduct the morning worship for the home. The class will be dinner guests at the home and then tour the home and its landscaped grounds.
 The group will leave Saturday afternoon and be guests of the Mallory Avenue Christian church high school group. Each member will take a sleeping bag or bed roll as overnight quarters will be arranged in the church gymnasium. During the Saturday evening activities the group will go roller skating.
 Rev Knox stated that approximately 20 young people are planning to take part in this trip and transportation will be furnished by the parents. Last year, 16 members of the class visited the church's White Swan and McKinley Indian missions in Washington.

Oregon Corn Show Scheduled Dec. 6
 Increased interest in field corn production in Oregon will turn the spotlight on corn growing, harvesting, and feeding practices at this year's Oregon State Corn Show, reports Rex Warren, Oregon State college farm crops specialist.
 The 17th annual public show is scheduled December 6 at the Benton county fairgrounds, Corvallis, starting at 9 a.m.
 Top corn yields, 10-ear exhibits, and judging contests will still be major events, Warren states, but will share the program with "educational type" discussions on corn growing and feeding.
 Oregon field corn acreage this year hit a record high of 47,000 acres, compared to 36,000 last year and 25,000 acres in 1950.
