CAPITAL PARADE
INS AND OUTS
 For the first seven days after general election results were known the announcement of intended Republican appointments did not keep pace with resignations from Democratic state officials appointed by Governor Holmes.

Within 36 hours after the polls closed Robert J Steward, Oregon's director of agriculture, had dispatched an amicable letter of resignation to Mr Hatfield. Howard Morgan, public utilities commissioner, was next with James Johnson, motor vehicle director following. Others have stated they will resign next week.

Before leaving Thursday with Mrs Hatfield for a short visit in California, Mr Hatfield announced the selection of three members of his official family. Loren D Hicks, Salem, will be his legal counsel; Miss Leolyn Barnett, who began state work 30 years ago, and Mrs J L Siegmund, who for two sessions of the Legislature was Hatfield's secretary, will be in the new governor's front office.

HATFIELD APPOINTS
 Governor Elect Mark Hatfield had his happy obligation of selecting some 600 Republicans to replace incumbent Democrats, made much easier when Democratic voters defeated many capable Republicans for re-election. Then there were a number of very efficient Republicans who elected not to swim against what they saw as a westward-sweeping Bourbon tide. In the later category are several highly efficient persons with extensive legislative experience and knowledge of state affairs.

Outstanding is the political career of Senator Howard C Belmont, Canby, who has served in 13 regular and three special sessions of the Oregon Legislature, being President of the Senate in 1945. The August senator could do better than a creditable job in any high state office. He has extensive and attractive farming interests. Before the end of the 1957 session he announced that he was retiring from political life. Although his services would be very valuable to the state it is unlikely that he could be persuaded to take a state post.

Senator Rudie Wilhelm, Jr has just about the same problem except that his interests are commercial. He was speaker of the House in 1953. He is young, just past 40, also could fill any state office better than creditably. Rumor is that he might be pressed into accepting the Secretary of State post.

There is a ditto on the above as Senator Lee V Ohmart, Salem, who has a record of four hard-working years in the Legislature where he became a valued tax analyst, heading many successful conference committees. We would like to guess him into a chair in the State Tax Commission, along with Senator Anthony Yturri, Ontario, a very successful attorney, who made more than a favorable impression on seasoned legislators when he served in the 1957 regular and the special sessions.

PROFESSOR-GOVERNOR
 Frowns and scowls with cuss words, in the old days met any suggestion of nominating a professor for any office that the people would vote on.
 Loren Hicks might inform his boss that this is 'laesa majestas' but Oregon is due to have a second governor who was a professor. Tich Tich and gaboo.

James Withycombe, elected in 1914 and re-elected in 1918 was the first.
 Just in case you didn't read much campaign literature, Mark will be the second. This should be scrolled, framed and sent to Tammany Hall.

LEXINGTON LIVESTOCK CLUB

The October meeting of the Lexington Livestock club was held at the Ken Palmer home. There were 12 members present.

New officers and leaders for the coming year were elected. They are president, Dennis Doherty; vice president, Karl Beach; secretary, and reporter, Janet Palmer; leaders, Roy Martin and Ken Peck.

The November meeting was held in the Ken Peck home. Seventeen members were present. The members discussed the breaking up of the club, as there is a possibility of five new members coming in. The club members filled out their enrollment cards.

Turkey And All The Trimmings

To go with that handsome turkey for Thanksgiving dinner you should have the prettiest trimmings possible. A good idea which saves both table space and preparation and serving time is to combine the appetizer and salad courses.

Florida grapefruit are in markets in good supply now, just in time for festive holiday use. Their juicy tart flavor makes them a good choice with heavy meals. Here's how to prepare a tempting combination appetizer and salad served in grapefruit shells.

Florida Appetizer-Salad Combo
 3 Florida grapefruit, chilled
 4 Florida oranges, sectioned
 Salad greens
 2 Florida avocados

Cut Florida grapefruit in half. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Remove sections. Cut out core and dividing membrane. Combine grapefruit and orange sections. Line grapefruit shells with salad greens; spoon in combined sections. Cut Florida avocados in half lengthwise; remove pit. Peel skin from halves; dice avocado. Dip in citrus juice to prevent discoloration. Spoon diced avocado on top of each salad. Serve with French Dressing. YIELD: 6 servings.

The next meeting will be held in the annex building in Heppner on December 7.
