

Proposal For School Addition By Lone P-TA

By ECHO PALMATEER
Proposed plans for adding onto the new school building to be used for the high school were shown and explained by Joe Hausler, grade school principal, at the P-TA meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 12. He said that there were 9 rooms in the old building and nine of these were standard and that 260 there would have to be added for each grade in order to meet the standards. The plans in the old building were read and inspected by members of the P-TA. Other numbers in the program, with Mrs. Her-
Townsend in charge, were Mexican dances by Lee and Renee Leathers, a report cards by Lloyd Howton. He received his information from early teachers in low county and from a thesis written by Clarence Johnson, a school teacher in Heppner.
