 Getting ahold of the reigns of government—while guessing where they were.
 Peepsighting the budget raiders and slashers.
 Gov Holmes "appointment" of Dave O'Hara as secretary of state.
 Facing the prospect that tomorrow is another day, maybe, if.

EASING TAXPAYERS

Here is nearly eight million dollars the Legislature won't get to play with.
 State Treasurer, Sig Unander has received from the Forest Service Division of the United States Department of Agriculture, the sum of $7,708,049.04 as the annual twenty-five percent distributive share of the state of the amounts collected by the United States government from forest reserve rentals, sales of timber, and other sources for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958.
 The money will be apportioned and distributed to the various counties. The amounts apportioned are divided in the proportions of 75 percent to the road funds and 25 percent to the school funds of the counties.

PHONE JUMP HEARING
 Hearing on Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co's application for a $4,850,000 annual rate increase will be resumed Dec 8 in Public Utilities Commissioner Howard Morgan's office, Salem.
 The company's case was presented Sept 9; Morgan said cross examination is scheduled when the hearing is resumed.

SCHOOLBOOKS ADOPTED
 Adoption of textbooks for public grade and high schools for the six year period, beginning July 1, 1959, was announced Wednesday by the state Board of Textbook Commissioners.
 Local school districts will have to choose their books from the list.

More than 300 teachers took part in the selection.
 John M Miller, director of teacher education at Eastern Oregon College of Education, is chairman of the Textbook Commission.

VETERANS' HOME LOANS UP
 The average ex-GI with an Oregon veterans' farm and home loan paid a property tax of $168 this year, as compared to $145 last year and $135 in 1956.

The Department of Veterans' Affairs has just finished paying the 1958-59 taxes on properties of World War II and Korean veterans who have state loans.

BANKING LAW TEST CASE
 Gov Robert D Holmes, Governor, Mark Hatfield, State Treasurer, Sig Unander and State Banking Commissioner J Fritz Slade have been named defendants in a Circuit Court test case of the Oregon consumer finance act.

Joseph D Fulop, Portland businessman, has challenged the constitutionality of the act. An application to operate a small loan business, the Economy Finance Company, was rejected by Slade. Holmes, Hatfield and Unander make up the board.

Fulop said the act was an attempt to relegate legislative authority to an administrative official.

SICK PAY CLEARED
 School boards of Oregon are required by law to allow at least 10 days sick leave at full pay each year for all permanent full-time school district employees, Attorney General Robert Y Thornton ruled this week.

The ruling had been requested by the District Attorney of Morrow County whose problem was whether bus drivers and school lunch program workers were entitled to sick leave.

The Attorney general said a permanent full-time employee is one who is employed for a year or an indefinite period, whose wages can be computed on an hourly or daily basis, and who devotes most of his labors to school employment.

Vitamin K5 Extends Food Storage Life, OSC Study Reveals

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Vitamins, the wonder workers in human nutrition, are now taking on new roles in food preservation.
 One of these, Vitamin K5 needed by the human body to help stop bleeding, can extend the storage life of a wide range of foods, Oregon State college food technologists have found.

Small amounts of Vitamin K5 added to mushroom sauce, crab meat, cottage cheese, frankfurters, table syrup and strawberry jam greatly delayed spoilage.

Use of natural food additives as preservatives increases food value, and prolongs shelf life, according to Dr H Y Yang, food technologist and author of a recent article in Food Technology magazine. Some chemicals unauthorized as food preservatives may be harmful to the consumer or affect food quality, he says. Vitamin K5 shows definite promise in preserving fruit made with artificial sweeteners. Sugar, when added to fruits, acts as a preservative and helps prevent molds. But low calorie sugarless fruits spoil quickly unless refrigerated. Vitamin K5 would also be helpful in helping prevent food spoilage in unused portions of food. Scientists are also seeking new ways to preserve foods in areas of the world without refrigeration.

How Vitamin K5 prevents spoilage is not known, says Yang. However, some scientists believe that the vitamin when combined with water produces an "intermediate" compound that kills the spoilage micro-organisms.

Natural foods high in Vitamin K5 include spinach, kale, egg yolk, liver, cheese and tomatoes. Alfalfa is another high source of the vitamin. A light tan powder, the Vitamin K5 in OSC tests was mixed with water and added to foods in varying amounts. Then foods were stored.

In previous work at OSC, Vitamin K5 has been used successfully to preserve wines. It aids in fermentation of the juices, but prevents "secondary fermentation" or souring. Later tests will be made with fruits such as prunes, berries, cherries and seafoods, including oysters and shrimp. Other research workers cooperating on the study are R W Stein, R F Cain, Russell Sinnhuber and Wilbert Steele.
