By CAROLYN McDANIEL

The holidays went by much, much too quickly for HHS students. The last few days of school were very pleasant, though, parties and even more parties seemed to be the theme of the days just before vacation. The seniors received their picture orders from Coles Studio, and were busy signing and passing them to their friends. Several senior mothers; Mrs Huffman, Mrs Anderson, Mrs Ruhl and Mrs Mahoney gave a Christmas party for the seniors exclusively. Bags full of goodies were distributed among the senior population and a wonderful time was had by all.

The Mustangs were victorious over the St Joseph Academy Bluejays by taking both of the games that were played during the weekend. Traveling to Pendleton on Friday night, the Mustangs played a close game and won 55-53. On Saturday night here the Bluejays were again defeated by the mighty Mustangs, who ran up a score of 48-40. Games this weekend will be with Echo and Stanfield. The game Friday night will be at Echo, while on Saturday night the Mustangs will play the Stanfield Tigers here.

Admission was free. Taking charge in the music department of the dance was Roy Quackenbush and his orchestra, while the seniors held their own in supplying refreshments of cookies and punch to everyone.

Bud Says!

As independent tire dealers, we are happy to see the Federal Trade Commission, as the Nation's Advertising referee, blow the whistle on the crescendo of superlatives in tire advertising. We have not been in sympathy with government interference in any business but when manufacturers will not take the responsibility to police their own industry we agree that the time for interference has arrived. To better explain the reason we would like to give the statements by "Confusion, Ancient Chinese Tire Advertising Philosopher."

"Ad for Super-Deluxe Custom Champion-Cushion tire assures customer only that tire is round and probably hold air."

"Deluxe-Super may be better than Super, but no so good as Deluxe—but then maybe Custom-Super better than Deluxe-Super and Super not Super at all."

"New tread may mean new grip on road or recap on old carcass maybe Raylon or Nayron; trick for customer to find out which."

"Guarantee is something customer gets for life of, but life of what. Customer not told."

"Half-price means one-fourth price if first tire bought at full price but customer must throw in old tire, or price is three dollars more but not forget TAX is EXTRA."

You can see from the above that a tire customer reading tire ads is doomed to confusion, especially when there is no standard to signify the quality of tire you are buying. You have to put your faith and trust in a reliable tire dealer.

The price you pay is a very good guide to the quality you get. Which brings us down to a poem I like . . .

"I love the simple things of life, come rainy day or sunny; A crust of bread, a sip of wine, a rocking chair, and money."

Your money will go a long way if you buy your tire and battery needs at Ford's Tire Service.

We still have a lot of those good used 15 inch Winter tires, and now have Winter recaps in the 14 inch size. See us today!
