Fish Cookery Demonstrations Attract Many Women

"I like the fish dishes Mrs. Groves demonstrated. You'd have all the ingredients in your kitchen except the fish itself," was the comment of one woman who attended one of the two fish cookery demonstrations presented by Mrs. Helen Ruth Groves, home economist for the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Seattle.
 The demonstrations, sponsored by the county extension units, were held last week at Boardman and Heppner. Good crowds attended both meetings. Arrangements were made by Miss Esther Kirmis, county extension agent.
 Mrs. Groves, who had her own television show in Florida for five years, presented seven practical and economical recipes for fish. Besides the demonstrations, Mrs. Groves gave information on the market forms of fish, the proper handling and storage, nutritive value of fish products and principals of fish cookery.
 She was accompanied by Peter Formuzis, marketing specialist from the Seattle branch of the fish and wildlife service. He discussed types of fish products available locally and criteria for judging their quality.
 Following the tasting of all the fish dishes, coffee and cookies were served by hostess units.

Many Uses of Ala Are Demonstrated
 Miss Frances Barnick, home economist for the Oregon Wheat League, demonstrated the preparation of ala casseroles and batter breads to extension unit project leaders and club representatives Tuesday, January 27, at the Hope Lutheran church basement in Heppner. The all day meeting was a training for the "Oregon Wheat Products" extension unit lesson which will be presented to the homemakers clubs in February. Arrangements for the project training was made by Miss Esther Kirmis, Morrow county extension agent.
 Mrs. Faye Munkers Lexington, state domestic wheat utilization chairman; and Mrs. Max Barclay, Heppner, county domestic wheat utilization chairman, were also on hand to inform the women of their wheat promotion program. "Everyone knows of the great wheat surplus in the United States," stated Mrs. Munkers. "It is up to us to find all the uses we can for the product we grow." Ala, is a wheat cereal product.

 The addition of onion soup and cream of chicken soup to the casserole the women found enhanced its flavor. Ala makes a good accompaniment to any meat dish like pork chops, beef, or chicken. This served with a fruit or vegetable salad and a dessert make an excellent menu.
 A new innovation in breadmaking is batter breads. The consistency of this bread is thin enough that it can be beaten with a spoon or electric mixer rather than kneaded. The result is a coarser texture bread which is good for snacks and lunches. Miss Barnick demonstrated an onion-ala batter bread which proved very tasty.
 Using the same type of batter bread dough, the economist prepared several coffee cakes with brown sugar-cinnamon topping, jam or preserve topping and powdered sugar frosting.
 The food prepared by Miss Barnick was used for the noon luncheon of the meeting.

HOOF AND HORN CLUB
 The Hoof and Horn club met at the Marcel Jones home Sunday, Feb. 8. The president, Douglas Anderson called the meeting to order. Susan Drake led the American flag salute and Judy Jones the 4-H flag salute. We answered roll call by telling what we fed our pigs.
 Mr. Jones passed out the safety guide and Mr. Anderson explained about it and he also talked about a field trip we would take Saturday. Steve and Mike Warren made a report on the care of pigs, then we had two movies. Our recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Anderson.

1959 Farm Income May Slip Some, But Good Year Forecast
 Oregon farm income in 1959 may slip a little from the 1958 level but should be higher than in most other recent years, reports M. D. Thomas, Oregon State College agricultural extension economist.
 Despite some weak spots in Oregon agriculture during the past year, total farm income for 1958 is expected to top $400 million. Finally tally may place it third highest on record, exceeded only by 1951 and 1952. Meanwhile, farmers costs have risen and may go up a little more in 1959, Thomas explains.
 Reduced support price level on wheat, coupled with large supplies and lower prices for pork and poultry products in the year ahead, are cited as key reasons for probable income decline in 1959.
 Among the brighter spots are cattle and sheep which are expected to hold the sizable price gains made in 1958. Lamb prices usually follow beef trends, the economist states.

Irrigon Boys Start Cooking Club

Twelve Irrigon boys, ranging from 11 to 15 years of age, have braved tradition by organizing a Bachelor Cooks 4-H club, according to Miss Esther Kirmis, Morrow county extension agent.
 Under the leadership of Mrs. L. W. Schaad, Irrigon, these boys will learn how to make cold milk and fruit drinks, hot cocoa, sandwiches and hamburgers, raw vegetable snacks, fresh fruit treats, cookies, and desserts. They will combine these foods to make snacks or simple lunches, picnic lunches, and special entertainments.
 In Mealtime Fun, 4-H foods project I, they will also experience the correct way to wash dishes, set the table, and how to help with family entertaining.
 Foods for good health will also be discussed throughout their club year.
 Boys and cooking may not seem to go together, but when one goes into any restaurant or hotel, there is usually a male chef that is supervising the job. Possibly a future chef is in the making in this Irrigon club.
 Officers of the new club are: President, Garry Schaad; vice president, Lynn Hobbs; secretary,

Seed market prospects are especially encouraging for growers of ryegrasses, vetch, and forage crop seeds. Lawn grass seed, especially bentgrass, is plentiful and market prospects are less promising. Oregon's two main vegetable crops—snap beans and peas—are in a good supply position. Plantings and prices of processing vegetables aren't likely to change much in 1959, Thomas says.
 Potato prices during the first half of 1959 are expected to be lower than a year earlier, but may do a little better in the second half. Onions are likely to be over-planted in 1959 in response to improved prices this winter.
 Little change is seen in the strawberry picture. Other fruit trends point toward a smaller apple crop at better prices, but more pears and cherries at lower prices with little change in total income.

Extension Unit Dies Wheat Use

Rhea Creek Extension unit at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Feb. 4, for an all day long. Seventeen members enjoyed a potluck dinner.
 Batty and Mrs. Evelyn Farley demonstrated Oregon wheat products. They prepared and baked Star yeast sweet breads served them for the dinner's first. A wheat product, ala, used in new dishes. It was used to cook this wheat as the package directed.
 John Graves, vice president, conducted the meeting. Arrangements were made by Miss Esther Kirmis, county extension agent and a small fee will be charged for the new copies. The decision to wear Centennial shirts to the festival, April 30, plans were discussed.
 A meeting new fabrics and dresses will be the subject and one of officers will be held. A floor prize was won by Mrs. Bill.
