

Heppner High School SCOOP

By CAROLYN McDANIEL

The junior class play "The Bus Stops Here" will be presented for the public on Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4. Curtain will go up at 8:00 on both nights. Mr Gordon Pratt, who is directing the play announced. The cast includes 14 characters who portray a story involving the people who stop at a little diner along the bus route. A routine performance will be given for grade school children on Friday. Prices for the tickets are adults—75c and students—50c.

Students got a big laugh Wednesday morning when they received their issues of the Heppner. Senior staff members and advisor Mrs Kirk had written and run off a special April Fool's issue. The real fun came when many students took the joke articles as the real thing. Having school an hour earlier, a new dream cafeteria, and a whole activity week were a few of the articles that were a part of the staff's April Foolin'.

Badminton, tennis, ping-pong, volleyball and horseshoes are the sports students are participating in for the HHS Internurals. Contests in these sports are staged between the four classes. A varying amount of points is given for different events and the class ending up with the highest score wins the internurals. Freshmen and sophomores are demonstrating lots of enthusiasm, but so far the juniors and seniors seem to be having trouble to get enough participants.

After the usual week of tests in each class, students will receive their report cards on Thursday, April 2. This ends the third 9 week period. For the seniors this means that they are beginning the last quarter of their high school days.

Mrs Homer Hager, home economics instructor announced that the annual style review will be on April 8, at 8:00 p m in the multipurpose room. Roseann Ayers, a junior was the first girl in home economics to complete her project, which is a fitted skirt made of Pendleton wool. Other girls are busily finishing their garments so they may participate in the style
