WOULD SOFTEN TOUGHIES

A schedule to crack hard juvenile nuts in MacLaren or Hillcrest has been proposed by Walter Foster, Polk County district attorney. He would send them to adults. Then, if they kept up their bad work, they could have their probation withdrawn and transferred to an adult institution.

He would like to see his plan, which he believes to be both legal and ethical given some study and trial.

Oregon's new juvenile code which goes into effect next January requires everyone charged, under 18, to be handled, at least initially, in juvenile court.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP LAW
 Rep Frank Weatherford (D-Olex) requested the opinion of Attorney General Robert Y Thornton on the effect of the new law creating a State Scholarship Commission, which became effective in May. It allows the commission to award a free scholarship for each seat in the Legislature and one for each county in the state.

Under the old law, students were nominated by legislators and then selected by lot by the county court. Rep Weatherford had nominated a Fossil High school senior for a free scholarship to Oregon State College before the passage of the new law.

Thornton ruled that students nominated for state-paid scholarships by members of the Legislature before the repeal of the old free-scholarship law must re-apply to the new State Scholarship Commission if they have not already been selected by their county court.

NATIONAL DEBT CEILING
 Sen Wayne Morse, Sen Clarke (Dem. Pa.) and seven other sponsors have introduced a bill which would lower the national debt ceiling by $20 billion rather than raise the ceiling as proposed by President Eisenhower.

The National debt problem will be a "batter up" issue with many senatorial candidates on both sides of the political field, during the 1960 presidential campaign.

Beef Council For Oregon Receives Legislative OK

An Oregon Beef Council, supported by voluntary fees and for promotion of beef on a statewide basis, was authorized by the 1959 legislature and will become effective October 1, this year.

The seven-man Council, composed of three cattlemen, two dairymen, one handler and one feeder, will be appointed by the governor from recommendations submitted by the various producer groups.

Backers of this legislation, now chapter 685 Oregon laws, were the Oregon Cattlemen's association, the Western Oregon Livestock association and the Oregon Dairymen's association.

In addition to statewide promotion in Oregon, the sponsors are hopeful that the Oregon group will be able to cooperate with other beef councils on a regional basis. The law also authorizes support of the National Beef Council and the National Livestock and Meat Marketing Board program.

"Support of this program will be absolutely voluntary, with no strings attached, but we hope for the support of the entire beef industry of the state," says Ted Hyde of Bly. Hyde is chairman of the beef promotion committee of the Oregon Cattlemen's association.

He points out that the voluntary contributions will be made uniformly at the rate of 10 cents per head collected with the brand inspection fee through cooperation of the selling agencies and the state department of agriculture.

Beef producers voted down a compulsory assessment for promotion two years ago when major arguments advanced against that move were that support should be on a voluntary basis and promotion should be tied in with regional and national programs.

IONE HORSE CLUB

This week Gary Tullis was our leader. He will be our leader the rest of this year.
 Our meeting was at the Tullis ranch. We discussed how we were going to make money for the club. It was decided to have a horse ride at the cost of 10c for those who are under 6 and 15c for those over six.

We talked about the clothes we are to wear too, but that was not decided and the meeting was adjourned.
 Tim Tullis, reporter
