

Hats With Your Home Agent

By ESTHER KIRMIS

has surely been uppermost in mind this past week. Agent, N C Anderson and ended a 4-H leader training shop in Pendleton on Nov. 3 and 4 and of course, the annual achievement party at the Heppner fair pavilion on November 7.

Pendleton workshop, one held in the state, was being meeting for county agents of 12 counties in eastern Oregon. Supervising workshop were members of state 4-H club staff from State College.

first day's program included: planatory remarks by Burdett, state 4-H leader; Extension Service" by Lear, state extension agent; "How did it happen" (4-H) by Ruth Brasher, state agent; "Our Work Today" by Cal G Monroe, state agent; "How do we motivate?" by Mary Frances, associate leader of 4-H programs, Washington, D C. Especially enjoyable on the second day was a presentation of "Understanding Boys and Girls", by Mrs Roberta Frasier, family life specialist; and "Communications" by Gordon Hood, state extension agent, and Burton Berger, information specialist.

The agents were divided into two groups each day to discuss such things as "What do Leaders need to know?" "How can we best reach the leaders with information?" and "Developing a leader training program." This enabled agents of eastern Oregon to exchange ideas and plans used in their counties.

The workshop closed on November 4 with F L Ballard, associate director of extension service, giving some good advice on the agent's role as educator and teacher.

Much of this information will be given to Morrow county 4-H leaders at the leader training meeting scheduled for November 21 at the annex building at the Heppner fair grounds. A state 4-H representative will be down to assist us with the presentations.

Watch the Oregon Farmer these next few months as E R

Jackman, former range crop management specialist, has written an article on the history of Morrow county. (He is doing a series of these county histories as a tribute to the Oregon Centennial). I am privileged to have my name attached to the article as co-author. This came about because I had submitted our county history, which was compiled by our extension unit members, to him as helpful material.

"I hope that it sets well with the people of your county," writes Mr Jackman, "I expect it will be used in a couple of months".

Speaking of Morrow county history—the Heppner Gazette hopes to have our history off the press by Thanksgiving. Watch for an announcement in the Gazette Times.

Two of the busiest women in Irrigation are Mrs M E Hadwick and Mrs Larry Schaad who are presenting a "Children's Clothing" Workshop the first three Mondays in November. I visited the workshop at the Hadwick home, on November 9 and found 10 engrossed in the construction of children's playclothes and shirts.

The workshop is planned to help those who want to sew children's play clothes. Mrs Hadwick and Mrs Schaad are teaching beginning learnings in sewing and techniques peculiar to the construction of slacks, shorts, overalls, and other pant-type garments. These two Irrigation women received their training at a "Children's Playclothes" workshop presented by Beverly Bradshaw (Mrs Charles Doherty) a few years ago. In true extension fashion these project leaders are passing on their knowledge.

Women taking part in the workshop include: Mrs Fred Murtishaw, Mrs Vernon Gerberding, Mrs Frank Johnson, Mrs Elmer Collins, Mrs Sylvia Morgan, Mrs Mattie Jackson, Mrs Charles Early, Mrs Dolores Pummel, Mrs Ralph Riggs, and Mrs

Standard Oiler Jack Sindall, and wife Carolyn, introduce their silver poodle to the sparkling wonders of modern detergents.

From deep in the earth...the world's best cleaners

Less than 15 years ago, the first package of modern detergent was sold to a dubious housewife. Today, two-thirds of the nation's cleaning is done by synthetic detergents.

This has been made possible by a chemical ingredient found in petroleum. Standard pioneered production of this substance and today produces more than half of all that is used in the United States.*

As every woman knows, synthetics can do any cleaning job better. They make water "wetter," have greater cleaning power, cause dirt to come out fast and float away.

Detergents work in hard or cold water, leave no scum or bathtub ring, and allow dishes to drain sparkling dry.

To make detergents even better, our scientists are continually testing new formulas, which they try out on stacks of dishes, bundles of scientifically soiled laundry samples, piles of dirty white shirts.

As a result, the detergents you use get better every year. And they become useful in more and more ways, from washing railroad cars to making water wetter for fighting fires.

In this way, by continually working to bring you better products... the people at Standard are planning ahead to serve you better.
