By ESTHER KIRMIS

Twelve county extension agents and myself surely had a work-out last week when we attended a 4-H clothing workshop at the Oregon State College under the direction of Miss Hildegarde Streufert, OSC clothing specialist.

We discussed such things as why clothing is included in the 4-H program; why the clothing project interests 4-H girls; the merits of informal teaching; why we have leader training; and how do we get 4-H leaders.

Two sets of slides were reviewed. One called "Growing up" showed the physical and emotional development of 4-H members; their abilities as to coordination; and their interests in personal appearance and grooming.

The other set of slides was on "Accessories" which brought out such things as how does one glamorize with accessories and plans for building an accessory wardrobe.

We spent some time choosing youthful patterns for 4-H girls and selecting fabrics to coordinate with them. We also took 4-H garments and planned accessories for them.

A block of time was set aside for the agents to make up samples showing the steps in putting in a zipper, attaching convertible and peter-pan collars; putting in a fitted facing; setting in sleeves and the finishing of sleeves; and linings and hems in skirts.

Stadelman Files for District Senate Post as Republican

George (Bun) Stadelman, of The Dalles has filed for the state senate on the Republican party for the 16th district which includes Morrow, Gilliam, Wheeler, Sherman, Wasco and Hood River counties.

Stadelman is one of the owners and active in the management of Stadelman's, a fruit growing, packing and shipping organization. He has served as mayor of The Dalles, ex-president of the League of Oregon Cities, and chairman of the advisory committee for the state training schools.

The candidate advocates relieving the price squeeze on farmers, tax squeeze on workers and business men, and he believes the state tax base must be broadened by acquiring new industry.

The senate post is now held by Ben Muss, The Dalles Democrat.

We did not have sufficient time to complete all these, but when these samples are completed they will be available to 4-H club leaders to use in demonstrating to their girls the principles of dressmaking.

We have scheduled a dressmaking I workshop on March 22, 23 and 29, 30 for 4-H clothing leaders and extension unit project leaders in Heppner. Miss Streufert will be on hand to assist me at that time so our leaders and girls should surely benefit "clothing-wise."

Speaking of girls, have you parents wondered if there was any reason to send your daughter to college if she's just going to get married?

ter to college if she's just going to get married?

Mrs Roberta Frasier, OSC family life specialist, says, "Yes, for a score of reasons."

In addition to broadening her education, she will be better prepared to earn a living in the decade after she's out of school. And recent figures indicate she's going to carry a share of the family paycheck home.

She may work for the first few years after she's married, before children, and again after the children are raised, figures indicate. In 1958 the largest number of women workers were 40 years of age. About a fifth of the nation's income in the form of wages and salaries is earned by women.

Although the husband may be able to support the family on his paycheck, women often return to work to fill an emotional need, to be able to buy things that will increase their standard of living, or to help provide for youngsters schooling. This is revealed in the fact that more than half of all working women are married and living with their husbands. Of these 30% work either at full or part time jobs.

Women today live longer than their husbands. In one out of ten families in the U S women are the head. In nearly half of these families, in which the mother is the head, there are children under 18 years of age.

Families in which the mother is college-educated eat better,
