Average Food Costs Listed For Families

A family of four spends an average of $22.50 to $38 a week for groceries, depending on age of youngsters in the family and the type of meals served.

These estimates are reported by food marketing specialists at Oregon State College from figures compiled by the U S Bureau of Labor Statistics.

For Oregon families who want to compare their food buying habits with others living in the western states, extension specialists highlight these other facts from the report.

A couple in the 20 to 34 age bracket can eat well-balanced meals on the average for as little as $16.70 a week on a low-cost meal plan. A "liberal" food spending a few days in Portland.

The Junior High Pilgrim Fellowship group of the Community church met at the home of Mr and Mrs David McLeod Sunday afternoon. Stephen Lindstrom had charge of the recreation; Bobby Lee DeSpain the worship and Marilee Leathers the refreshments.

The senior high fellowship group met at the church where a film strip was shown. Bob Rice had charge of the recreation and Kenny Lynn Smouse the worship.

budget runs about $8 more. Low-cost meal plans include more of the less expensive foods such as cereals, dry beans and peas, potatoes, and macaroni products.

"Liberal" food spending includes more meat, eggs, fresh fruits, and vegetables, larger quantities of dairy products, out-of-season and more highly processed foods.

Older couples, 55 to 74 years of age, on the average eat a little more economically. They are more likely to spend less for prepared foods, beverages other than milk, candy and snack items. In many cases, they do not need as much food as a growing youngster, specialists point out.

A family of four with preschool children can eat well for $22.50 on a low-cost meal plan. More of the higher-cost foods will add about $8 to $10 a week.

It costs anywhere between $3.90 to $5.50 to feed a child 1 to 3 years of age, each week, but a teenage boy often eats more groceries than his dad. It's estimated that it costs $9 to $13.20 a week to feed a 16 to 19-year-old youth, including meals and snacks eaten at home, while it costs from $7.40 to $10.50 a week to feed a 35 to 54-year-old man.

ROCK HOUND'S CORNER

By BETTY WAGNER

Rock Hounds day, February 7. What a beautiful day greeted the Rock Hounds of Morrow county when they went "field tripping" via modern conveniences—fiery chariots and rock shops.

Plans were to meet for dinner at noon at the Char-Glo Broiler at Cascade Locks and then proceed to the Wind Mt Agate Shop a few miles east on the gorge highway. A good turnout of members and a good display of cut and uncut, mounted and unmounted stones at the agate shop made the day a real success. Even the "Pebble-Pups" and one junior rock hound who were along had a wonderful time looking and buying. One object d'art which we were all fascinated with was the beautiful TV lamp of white banded onyx cut to represent an iceberg with several white onyx polar bears placed strategically on and around the iceberg. The light was placed inside the iceberg and was very lovely.

Our thanks to our field trip chairman, Hubert Wilson for planning such an enjoyable day for the rock club.
