

Lex Group Plans Easter Breakfast

By DELPHA JONES

The Women's Fellowship group of the Lexington church met at the home of Mrs Roy Campbell on Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs W E McMillan and the minutes read and approved. "Thank you" cards were read from the Frank Munkers family and from Mrs Walter Smith. Plans for the Easter breakfast were discussed, and all those planning on attending were asked to call either the president or sign a register which will be at the church, so the committee will know how many to prepare for. This is planned for 7:30 A M in the church parlors. Due to the absence of Mrs O G Breeding the devotionals were given by Janet Cavin who read a testimonial on God's Love written by herself. The program was given by LaVerne Henderson and consisted of several games with Bible names and numbers as answers. Put Imagination In Children's Lunches

Does your child have a good appetite? Or is he giving you headaches because of lack of any appetite at all?

In any case, it doesn't take much extra time to get an imaginative lunch for junior. And, who knows a meal that arouses interest may waken a dormant appetite or help to keep a hefty appetite alive.

The hot cream soup is out of the ordinary because it's a blend of two soups. Nonetheless, it doesn't take long to make because canned soups are used.

Simply mix well 1 can cream of chicken soup, 1 can cream of asparagus soup or cream of celery soup, and 1 1/2 soup cans of milk. Heat to serving temperature. Garnish with chopped parsley. Yields 6 servings.

The toast is dressed up with orange butter spread. Be prepared to serve seconds on this combo, for orange butter will be a big hit. It's the refreshing flavor of oranges blended with the unmatched natural flavor of butter that gives this spread "want-more" appeal.

The trick to salad interest here comes in shape. A kitty was the inspiration. The body is a slice of pineapple; the head, and apricot half; the ears; raisins; and the tail, a thin slice of green pepper. If this intrigues your youngster, put the wheels of your brain in motion and surprise him with other animal patterns now and then.

For dessert, there's pink strawberry ice cream. You've probably never known a child who doesn't love ice cream. How fortunate that this food that tastes so good is so nutritious too!

A fat glass of cold milk rounds out the menu. Children need a minimum of four glasses of milk a day, so it's important to include at least one glass in the noon meal.

Orange Butter Spread For Toast
1/4 cup butter, 1 cup confectioners sugar, grated rind 1 large orange, 1 tablespoon orange juice. Cream butter. Add sugar and mix well. Add orange rind and orange juice. Toast bread on one side. Spread orange butter on the other side and broil until the spread melts and bubbles. Or use as a spread on toast.

Child's Death Shows Need For Care in Handling Detergents

Here's an important message to parents from our Morrow county public health nurse. A youngster died recently in Oregon after accidentally swallowing automatic dishwashing compound. To prevent more such tragedies, won't you please check your own home for dangerous products? Look especially under the kitchen sink, in your bathroom medicine chest, and wherever else you store common household products. Get rid of those you don't use, and store the others in locked cabinets or those out of reach of children. Why not do it now, while it's fresh in mind?

Automatic dishwasher detergents—such as that which killed the youngster in The Dalles recently—are not really detergents at all, but rather are members of the caustics group of cleaners.

There is nothing wrong with the automatic dishwasher compounds themselves, if they are used and stored according to directions. Main ingredients of most of the compounds, Mrs Glass said, is sodium phosphate. This converts to sodium hydroxide, the main ingredient of lye, just as soon as the product goes into solution with water.

Such products should therefore always be kept out of the reach of children, and should be handled with extreme caution by adults. The compounds never should be allowed to come in contact with wet skin.

If swallowed, the victim should be given two tablespoons of vinegar in two glasses of water, the white of two raw eggs, or two ounces of olive oil, and then rushed immediately to the nearest physician's office or hospital. Vomiting should not be induced, because of the danger of repeating the burn as the product comes back up.

If the dishwashing compound gets into the eyes, prompt and continuous irrigation with water should be given to the eyes until the patient can receive medical attention.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

We went to Walla Walla, March 19 for swimming tests, but when we got there we found the pool was closed because they are working on a new pool. On the way back we stopped along the Columbia and six boys went swimming, but soon gave it up because the water was too cold.

Our regular meeting was held March 19 and we practiced having a court of honor because the committeemen have not arranged for a court and we have been ready for a long time.

We are hoping to form a Boy Scout baseball team.
